Town meeting to vote on land sale moratorium

A moratorium on sale of town owned land will be the subject of a special town meeting to be held within the annual town meeting on Saturday.

Selectmen had the moratorium drafted after they learned that there would be 14 articles on the warrant of the annual town meeting, each seeking the purchase of town owned land.

The moratorium would halt all sale of town-owned land for three years, allowing time for cataloging the land and rethinking the policy for the sale of land. Selectmen have expressed an interest in establishing a formal bidding procedure for any land to be sold.

Presently, a person can submit a warrant article for town meeting action. The town assessor gives the value of the land, and the decision is then up to the voters.

The annual town meeting convenes in the Wilmington High School gymnasium at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

Petitions filed for Reading Light investigation

Petitions have been submitted to the Mass. Dept. of Public Utilities seeking investigation into the rates and practices of the Reading Municipal Light Dept. (RMLD). The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce submitted a petition on Tuesday, with a co-petition filed by the Town of Wilmington. The town's petition does differ slightly from that of the chamber.

The petitions come as the result of a long investigation initiated by the chamber after a rate increase shifted a larger share of the burden for electric costs to industrial users.

The chamber's petition alleges that RMLD rates discriminate against customers outside of Reading. And although the towns cannot tax the property of RMLD, the petition alleges that voluntary payments in lieu of taxes have been overly generous to the town of Reading at the expense of the other towns. Also under scrutiny are the rates charged to towns for street lighting. The petition alleges that RMLD rates result in Reading buying power below cost.

The Wilmington town meeting, which convenes on Saturday, will be asked to appropriate $15,000 so that the town may investigate its options for electric power supply. Town Manager Buzz Stapeczynski has said that some of that money would be used to provide expert witnesses when the petition goes before the DPU for a hearing.

RMLD is run by a board elected in Reading, with customers outside Reading no representation. In addition to Reading, RMLD serves Wilmington, North Reading and Lynnfield Center. Wilmington customers buy more than 60 percent of the power billed by Reading Light, with industrial users making up a large portion of that amount.

Callan, Peterson win school committee race

In a town election with a sparse turnout Saturday, incumbents won in most races. There were no surprises, other than the fact that only 2004 persons voted.

Shirley Callan and incumbent Robert Peterson won a very close race for school committee. There was only a margin of 121 votes between first place and third place.

Kevin John Sowyrda was elected to the Shawsheen Tech School Committee in a race which had no incumbent.

Reading Light to start $2 service charge

Electric rates charged by Reading Light will change on June 1. A one-cent decrease in the fuel oil surcharge will be offset by the institution of a $2 per month service charge.

According to a Reading Light spokesman, a customer using about 250 kilowatts of electricity per month will see a drop in the monthly bill of 50 cents.

The rate changes are designed to raise $2.5 million in new revenues for Reading Light.

The bulk of the $2.5 million is expected to come from a high demand time surcharge for electricity used during June, July, August and September. This surcharge will vary over several different rate schedules, depending on the amount of electricity and the type of customer.

The surcharge is expected to result in an average 1.2 percent increase in electricity costs during the summer months.

RMLD Chairman John F. Crooker has said the summer surcharge will provide an incentive for energy conservation. Users will be charged a lower differential if they use less electricity, he said.

The summer surcharge is based on a Boston Edison model and is intended to compensate for peak months when the RMLD must purchase more of its power from more expensive short term contracts.

Also this week, the Reading Municipal Light Board (RMLB) approved a rate hike, effective June 1, which will mean an average increase of one half cent per kilowatt of electricity.

The RMLB has said the increase is necessary if the department is to achieve the eight percent profits it is allowed by law.

According to Crooker, approximately $4 million is anticipated as being needed to expand the RMLD system over the next three years, with most of the expansion servicing North Wilmington's burgeoning industrial area.

No hearings will be held on the rate changes. All that is required under law, said Department of Public Utilities (DPU) spokesman Robert Werlin, is to advertise in the local news media and to file the planned change with the DPU. The DPU, however, can investigate complaints from customers, he said.

Church to show film about mothers in prison

The First Baptist Church of Wilmington will be showing a motion picture release of International Prison Ministry of Dallas, Texas, entitled "Honey, Your Mama's in Prison."

The film is a unique look at the importance of the family and the tragedy of family break-up as seen through the eyes of mothers who have been imprisoned for murder, assault, trafficking in drugs, forgery, and embezzlement.

It was filmed inside one of the largest women's correctional facilities in the United States - Florida Correctional Institution, Lowell, Florida. The entire prison population of 650 inmates was involved in making the 45 minute documentary as were the officers and staff of the institution. Family members of some of the inmates were also interviewed.

International Prison Ministry, the producer of the film, is a non-denominational organization whose principal work is providing free Bibles and books to prisoners in over 6,000 prisons and jails in the United States and Canada.

The film is free to the public and will be shown at the first Baptist Church, 173 Church St., Wilmington on Sunday, May 5 at 6 p.m.

Chief's report to selectmen

Police wage war on drugs

by Arlene Surprenant
A major effort to control drug and alcohol abuse in the town of Wilmington is underway by the police department, Chief Bobby Stewart told selectmen Monday night.

Especially targeted are major drug suppliers, drug and alcohol abuse at the school level, and those persons driving under the influence.

His officers have already arrested several major suppliers of cocaine and marijuana, Stewart said. One supplier had 28 ounces of coke or $60,000 worth of drugs.

One incentive for a major crackdown is the new forfeiture bill in effect this month. Under this bill, any money derived from drug arrests will be split 50-50 between the district attorney's office and the local police department. Formerly, all money went to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Wilmington is presently awaiting a return of $1,400 from a recent raid.

This money will be "money well spent," said Stewart, as it will go toward surveillance and photographic equipment, "buy" money, undercover police, and the establishment and maintenance of new drug hotline number directly to the chief of police.

His department, Stewart said, has also cooperated with the school board in several preventive programs, such as the one undertaken at prom time last year which succeeded in preventing any serious car accidents. They are also making efforts to prevent minors from obtaining liquor either from package stores or friends in parking lots.

Stewart pointed out that they have been successful in "reducing significantly" the number of car accidents due to driving under the influence. What is now needed, he said, is an all-out community effort and some education to teach the public how to drive defensively.

In citing several statistics on other department matters, Stewart pointed out there have been increases in stolen motor vehicles and assault and battery by firearms crimes in Wilmington. There were 85 vehicles stolen in 1984 and a 1.7 percent overall increase in assault and battery crimes.

Stewart looked forward to the day when his department would be computerized. Considerable research has been done in this area recently, he said, and he felt a computer system would provide the greatest amount of safety for both citizens and officers.

Presently, much time is lost in responding to an emergency situation requiring instant access to information on file. Sometimes this delay can cause serious injury to officer or citizen.

He also hoped to have his department evaluated by the National Board of Accreditation in Washington D.C. This would reveal the department's weaknesses and bring up police standards and goals.

Rocco DePasquale asked whether there is a need for a traffic division within the police department.

Stewart said they do have a need for "a continued increase in enforcement efforts in this way." However, he wasn't able to justify creating a separate division, given the limited staff and funds available at this time.

Bob Cain was concerned with the increased amount of drivers leaving the scene of an accident and driving without insurance.

The only way to detect drivers with no insurance, said Stewart, is to stop a large number of cars indiscriminately to check.

Prop. 2½ planned for state government

Four years ago the voters of Massachusetts voted emphatically for an idea that was called "Proposition 2½." Barbara Anderson was the person most responsible for the proposal, in this state.

On April 17 Barbara Anderson again spoke of 2½, past, present and future, to the members of the Wilmington Rotary Club.

Taxes in Massachusetts were the fourth highest in the nation four years ago, she declared. Now the situation is greatly improved. This is because of the attitude of the people.

Four years ago many officials, in towns and cities, had an attitude of paying no attention to the ordinary person, who came into the town or city hall, said Anderson. Today they do pay attention. They have learned that the voter can and does exert power.

She and others are now drafting plans for a "Proposition 2½" for Massachusetts state government. The plans will be filed in August. Meanwhile, she said, Senator Krause (Arlington) is filing bills to increase the tax burden.

The state surplus, at this time, looks like it will be $340 million. That money should be returned to the taxpayers, Anderson declared. But, she said, Governor Dukakis says no.

"He wants to spend that money, and then have to raise more taxes."

The important thing for the voter to remember is the question: "Who is the boss, here?"

Dukakis was first elected on a "no new taxes" platform. We all know how that worked out. He now has plans which seem to want to spend that money. Then he will again raise taxes, Anderson declared.

This year, she said, is better than previous years, tax wise, "but it is still bad."

Asked about the Education Bill, now in the legislative process on Beacon Hill, Barbara Anderson classified it as a "bad bill."

Asked about Representative Miceli, she declared he was a good legislator "86 percent of the time." She was unable to characterize Rep. Geoff Beckwith (Wilmington third precinct) declaring that the legislator had, so far, not enough experience to be judged on his voting record.

Barbara Anderson, the taxpayer's authority on Proposition 2½, speaking at the Rotary Club of Wilmington on April 17.

VOTE NO ARTICLE 38

Article 38 calls for the construction of more than 90 units of so-called P.R.D. housing (condominiums) behind the Roberts Estate on Burlington Ave. If this article is approved, it could worsen an already dangerous and congested traffic problem on Burlington Ave. and could cause environmental problems in an extremely wet area which was once proposed for a conservation taking.

Amendment needed

During the past several years young couples and other people have been buying "tax title" land in the annual town meeting of Wilmington. Their purpose is to build a home at a reasonable cost.

Others, too, have been buying tax title land, for speculative purposes.

The Wilmington Planning Board sought, several years ago, to put a stop to these sales, but without success. The planning board wanted to make a determination to future town needs and uses, before the sales were made.

Now a special town meeting is to be called next Saturday, in the regular town meeting. The purpose is to put a stop to the sale of all town owned land.

The purpose is good. Some questions may be asked.

In particular questions should be raised about the land owned by the Wilmington Water Department, northerly of Route 125. The water department has owned that land for about 60 years. It is of no value to the department since it contains no source of water. That has been demonstrated.

The Water Department last year sought to sell that land to a local firm. The firm paid for all the surveys, and offered a price which the principal assessor agreed was good. About 23 acres was involved.

The sale was hoped for because the Water Department wanted to construct a water treatment plant in North Wilmington. The plant, of course, was for the purpose of removing rust, and otherwise purifying water.

The sale of the land would not pay for the new treatment plant, but it would help. It would have saved money for every family in town, in their water bills.

The sale fell through, in town meeting by a few votes.

Now again, the Water Department has an article in the town meeting, this time to erect that treatment plant, at an estimated cost of $6.4 million.

Bonds will have to be sold, and water rates raised, to pay for those bonds. This time the increase in water rates can be expected to be about 70 percent.

The smallest annual water bill in Wilmington is said to be $49.92. Add 70 percent and it will be $84.86.

The average family can expect an annual increase of maybe $100 in water bills.

If the land could be sold the cost of the station would decrease. It could be a million dollars it could be more.

Somehow that article in the special town meeting should be amended, so as to allow the sale of that land. Everyone in Wilmington would benefit.

Computerized libraries

One of the items that is worthy of attention this year is a request from Wilmington Memorial Library to get $80,000. That money could enable the library to get access to 1,000,000 volumes in other nearby libraries, by computer access.

A new book today cost on an average $32. Four or five years ago the price was about $20.

It cannot be expected that the price will decrease. It can be expected that the prices will go up, and more money will be needed for fewer volumes.

The library board is asking for an $80,000 appropriation for a consortium, which will tie the Wilmington library to the other libraries in the area. That money will enable Wilmington residents to have access to other volumes, without grat cost to the town.

Some will argue that the money should not be spent, because something else is more important. That is an argument which is heard almost every year.

Surely, an $80,000 investment which is worth $32 million should not be overlooked. Maybe the present generation is unable to read, but persons living today can bequeath this to their grandchildren who, hopefully, will be able to read.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

May I, through you, express my sincere appreciation to all who participated in my campaign for election to the Wilmington School Committee. The dedication of those whose only interest was to elect a candidate whose only motive was to serve the community of Wilmington was heartwarming. The 1048 voters who supported my candidacy at the polls showed a real concern for the future of our schools.

To the two winners my sincere congratulations. I wish them well in the difficult decision making period ahead. I will continue to attend school committee meetings and volunteer to assist the committee in any way they see fit.

My first time candidacy was an educational and eye opening experience. The number of people who responded positively to the high standards of our campaign was reassuring. These people are interested in issues, not alliances, in children not politics.

My future role is unclear at this time, but I can assure the impressive constituency who supported me that I will pursue their mandate with renewed vigor and commitment.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

On Saturday, April 27, at the Wilmington Annual Town Meeting, there will be an article of particular importance to me, my committee and the disabled of Wilmington. This is Article 25, establishing a Handicapped Affairs Commission. Though there presently exists the Handicapped Affairs Committee and has for two years, we, that committee, believe that a commission, as an integral part of the town government, would provide the greatest form of disabled representation and guarantee of disabled rights now and for the future.

Upon acceptance of Article 25, we plan a recruitment drive for new members, to insure as full a cross-disability representation as possible for this commission.

A second phase would include the creation of A.I.M. as a private, non-profit organization. This in turn would make A.I.M. the service provider, (ie, transportation, housing, social), or physical arm, and the Commission the political arm. This is why the Commission's request of the taxpayers is low, $500. The Commission, by not being in the transportation business, etc., would need only enough for a clerk and stationary.

Therefore, with this explanation of our plans, I request that all registered voters attending this Saturday's Town Meeting, vote in favor of our endeavor, Article 25.

Sincerely,

Lawrence W. Curtis

Dear Larz:

As a resident of Burlington Avenue, I wish to express my concerns over the proposed condominium project on Burlington Avenue near the former Roberts Estate. In your recent editorial, it was mentioned that many area residents were unfamiliar with the language in the PRD bylaw and had unfounded concerns over traffic and water problems which could be caused by the development of this site. Whether a group of citizens in Wilmington is an authority on PRD zoning or not should not be an issue. The bylaw is lengthy and is quite technical in its language. The real issue is the impact of a development with 98 housing units on the neighborhood and the entire town.

Anyone who has walked the 52 acre site where the condos are to be built will immediately realize that the land is not suitable land for a building project of this size. There are large areas of wetland spread throughout the 52 acres with a brook crossing the site which eventually leads into the Ipswich River. Despite the small amount of snow we had during this past winter and the lack of rain this spring, one can see many wet areas where the developer plans to place roads or buildings. The problem which is caused by this development and the cutting of trees and other vegetation is that the natural drainage in the area is changed. This change forces the water from this site to drain elsewhere to the point of least resistance. Unfortunately for the people downstream from this site, that elsewhere is often their cellars. Contrary to your recent editorial, it is not always the construction of a basement foundation that is the problem. It can also be the effect on the water table in the area being altered by development of a wet site that normally controls its excess water.

The second issue which concerns the people who live off Burlington Avenue is the increase in traffic generated by 98 housing units. Anyone who drives on Burlington Avenue during the rush hours probably has a clear remembrance of the traffic jams that occasionally back up from the bridge at Wilmington Square to Deming Way. On a recent Monday morning, this half mile section of roadway turned a normal one or two minute ride into a 15 minute crawl. Other sections of town face similar traffic problems during the rush hours but this road is one of the worst. By adding 98 condominiums in the developers proposed price range of $150,000 to $200,000 will add mostly two car professional couples and 200 more cars to use Burlington Avenue during the peak rush hours.

There is also another problem relating to traffic and the proposed site which causes a problem whether there be 100 condos, 50 single family homes or even 25 single family homes. Access into this site from Burlington Avenue would be through two proposed roadways within 300 yards of each other. Both entrances are on blind corners in a section of Burlington Avenue where there is a slight decline. Being a driver whose driveway is close to one of the proposed entrances, I can attest that it sometimes takes a wait of several minutes before traffic is clear in both directions allowing a left turn toward Wilmington Square. With 200 or more cars exiting from a street on a blind corner, traffic accidents will become a regular occurrence along this section of the street. One only has to look at the broken fences and stone walls along this section of road to realize that it can be a dangerous part of Burlington Avenue where not everyone obeys the 20 MPH speed limit.

In conclusion, the issue of development of this site is not condominiums versus single family homes or whether you favor PRD zoning or are against it. The real issue is whether the people of Wilmington need to add to the traffic problems, water problems and safety problems which our town faces and which will become worse should we continue to allow unplanned development.

Yours truly,
Robert H. Coughlin

Dear Larz:

I'd like to present several arguments which show that the proposed condominium development on Burlington Avenue should be voted down at the annual town meeting.

The plans for Charles Place call for about 100 two bedroom units to be placed on a parcel of land that was once part of the Roberts Estate. The land in question is laced with wetlands between 33 and 50 percent of the total site is wet, part of the site is flood plain and the Ipswich River runs through the property. The impact that such a massive construction project will have on such an ecologically sensitive area is difficult to predict (even for people who studied high school physics), but it is almost certain that 100,000 square feet of foundations will not improve the problems that people are experiencing with flooded basements, nor will it do anything to enhance the quality of our drinking water. It is impossible to build a project of this size without seriously disturbing the environment; in this case, the environment is so delicate that it cannot withstand disturbance.

Traffic in Wilmington is terrible. It is especially terrible near Wilmington Center, and it is little consolation for someone sitting in a 20 minute wait to know that the problem is being caused by residents of other towns. The proposed condominiums will be very expensive and this means that there will probably be two adults in each unit who work at "typical" (nine to five) jobs. This implies that every morning, and again every evening, an additional 100 cars will be joining that parade at Wilmington Center. Two hundred cars could add six tenths of a mile to the traffic that already exists, and this would effectively turn everything close to the center into a vast parking lot. I've seen the statistics which show that condominiums produce fewer "trips per unit" than other forms of housing, but it's the timing of the trips that is essential here. Trips to the grocery store at 2:00 p.m. are of no consequence with respect to our traffic problem; the crunch comes at the commuting hours, and this is where a condominium development produces most of its traffic. We should be working on a solution to our current traffic problem rather than contemplating ways to make it worse.

I find it incredible that the advocates of PRD housing cite as one of its advantages the fact that a condominium development is a "town within a town," a sort of elitist island of people who take care of their own trash, their own streets, and their own problems. My family has lived in Wilmington for nearly four generations, and one of the facets of small town life that we have always valued is the sense of community that exists in Wilmington. There are, of course, special interest groups, but in general people in town seem to have a common purpose. Look, for example, at the overwhelming support that was exhibited for the high school renovation; this mobilization was a model of community spirit. It would be tragic if this spirit were fragmented by a development which is essentially being advertised as a dormitory for people who have little interest in the common problems that are shared by most residents in town.

The proposed development would do nothing to enhance the quality of life in Wilmington. On the contrary, it could cause extensive damage to our environment, it could worsen our already dreadful traffic problem, and it could drastically change the communal spirit that exists in Wilmington.

Sincerely,
Albert and Marion Cuoco

Dear Larz:

Election Day has come and gone and only the memories linger on.

It's sad to say that in this beautiful town only a few people were around. The sun was shining, there was no rain, but still many people never came.

How many people have children in school? Don't they care who makes the rules?

How many people come out to fight when they feel something isn't done right?

How many people said "My candidate will make it in." But without your vote, they might not win!

It's a beautiful country we all live in. Doesn't it seem like such a sin? So many people far away would give up so much just to be able to say, "I have the right to vote today."

The days are busy and time is short, but take a few minutes to give it a thought. Just a few minutes of your time could make the difference for your's and mine!

Sincerely,
Linda Alpers

Dear Larz:

I would like to take this opportunity to explain why the Wilmington Board of Library Trustees submitted an article by petition for the Annual Town Meeting to seek funds to computerize the Memorial Library.

The trustees take very seriously our responsibility for the effectiveness of the public library. We are concerned about the impact of budget cuts and inflation on library service to Wilmington residents. For example, the Memorial Library's book budget has been decreased 31 percent since 1980. We can improve library service in the most economic way by joining the Merrimack Valley Library Consortium. For example, we will have quick access to over 1,000,000 volumes.

Three years of planning have already been devoted to the Memorial Library's joining the consortium. Further delay would be costly both in terms of dollars and service available.

The Board of Library Trustees urges all residents who are concerned about the quality of library service as well as the quality of life in Wilmington to support Article 26 at Town Meeting.

Sincerely yours,
George Boylen, chairman

of Library Trustees

Reading Light: a sleeping giant

by Elaine DePasquale

Cautious optimism was the tone of a brief report delivered by officials of the Reading Municipal Light Dept. (RMLD) at Reading's annual town meeting last Thursday night.

The report cited the RMLD as "the largest municipal electric utility in Massachusetts" with estimated revenue for 1985 of $44.5 million and a plant value soon to reach $26 million.

The utility's bonded indebtedness is $680,000, according to the report.

RMLD Secretary Alan Ames told the audience an annual four per cent increase in costs to the RMLD could be expected by 1987 if Seabrook I is completed.

"Should Seabrook not be completed," he said, "projected overall costs will increase six per cent a year because we will have fixed Seabrook costs whether the unit is running or not plus the costs of equivalent capacity which we feel will not be available."

Construction of Seabrook I is 85 per cent complete, Ames said.

However, a recent ruling by the Mass. Dept. of Public Utilities (DPU) has restricted financing for the completion of Seabrook.

"This decision," Ames said, "has been appealed to the Mass. Supreme Court and a finding is expected in early summer."

The case involves three private companies and the Mass. Municipal Wholesale Electric Co. (MMWEC) of which Reading is a part.

In the meantime Seabrook construction continues.

"MMWEC participants have enough resources to continue their portion of the project pending further developments," Ames said.

The RMLD has supplied electric power to Wilmington and other nearby towns since 1908.

Recently, a petition to the DPU has been filed by Wilmington selectmen and the Chamber of Commerce asking the DPU to investigate the rate-setting practices of the RMLD.

The RMLD, a recent Chamber of Commerce investigation revealed, has been making larger payments in lieu of taxes to Reading than to the other towns it serves.

Ames had no comments to make about the pending petition. His remarks focused on the history of RMLD, its sources of power and its relationship to MMWEC and Seabrook.

RMLD Board Member John F. Crocker spoke briefly before the report was read by Ames. "Before we didn't have all the answers," he said, "but now we have more of the answers."

According to the report, the RMLD began operations in 1895, generating its own power and serving only the town of Reading. In 1908, it extended its service to Wilmington, North Reading and Lynnfield Center.

In 1927, the RMLD stopped generating power and began buying it from Boston Edison.

Today it has 66 employees, 26 vehicles and serves over 21,000 metered customers in a 50 square mile territory, the report said. Its plant value will be $26 million at the end of 1985.

In 1976, the RMLD joined the year-old MMWEC, a joint action agency that allows its 34 separate municipal utilities to purchase power or build generating plants as if they were one utility, Ames said.

"So far participation in MMWEC has worked out well for Reading," Ames said. "We have been able to purchase both short and long term contracts for power at much lower cost than we would have been able to alone."

MMWEC, he said, owns the Stony Brook generating units in Ludlow, Mass., and one-sixth of these is owned by Reading.

Reading also has ownership interests in Millstone 3 and Seabrook as well as a life of unit contract with Boston Edison's Pilgrim 1 plant in Plymouth, he said.

"Approximately half our energy comes from Edison," Ames said. "The remainder comes from weekly or monthly contracts from around New England."

Ames pointed to what he called "a general lack of electric capacity in the Northeast region" as a problem beginning to surface.

Reading now owns six-tenths of one percent of Seabrook or a capacity of 7,300 kilowatts which represents "six percent of Reading's required capacity."

"Current projections show we must have this Seabrook capacity in order for us to maintain our system for the future," Ames said.

Ames gave a brief history of the Seabrook project.

Construction permits for two nuclear generating plants, Seabrook 1 and Seabrook 2, were issued in 1976 to Public Service Co. of N.H. (PSNH), the project's lead owner, Ames said.

"The project started off well, but as the seventies became the eighties, it became apparent that PSNH was involved in a larger undertaking than they could handle," he said.

In January, 1983, Ames said, the joint owners of Seabrook moved in with a new management team and Seabrook 2 was "mothballed."

Currently, he said, Seabrook 1 is on time and well within its $4.8 billion budget.

Test results from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission have been very good, he said.

Ice cream trucks limited to one per license

Should a licensee be able to have more than one ice cream truck per license in the town of Wilmington? Selectmen debated this question for a good portion of their Monday night meeting.

What touched off discussion were applications by Elizabeth Woods and new vendor John Thomas, who applied for a license for two trucks he had already purchased.

Chairman Jim Stewart opted for consistency. What the town allows one vendor should be allowed all, he said.

Bob Cain suggested, in his motion, that they limit each licensee to one ice cream truck. Therefore, Thomas could obtain one license now and, if no one applies for the third one, he could reapply in May.

As a rule, in the past selectmen have tried to limit the number of trucks, primarily in the interests of safety, to three.

The motion, after much discussion and a reconsideration by Bob Doucette, finally passed three to one.

Renewal licenses were also granted to florist Steve DeCrosta and taxi owner James Shine for two vehicles.

Wilmington police news

During the week ending April 23, Wilmington police officers responded to eight accidents, 18 alarms, two break and entries, seven larcenies, (including two stereos, bike radio, truck front end and a mini bike); assisted another department once, quieted six disturbances and made eight arrests.

Medical assistance was rendered on two occasions, seven incidents of suspicious activity were investigated along with five trespassing, four traffic and six trailbike complaints.

Five stolen vehicles were recovered, two assault and batteries were checked out along with three liquor related complaints and four threats. Six incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Thursday evening two North Andover men were arrested on drug related charges by Officer Pat King while on patrol through Eastgate Plaza. Francis W. and Mark J. Shelley, twin brothers, age 24, of Woodstock Road were charged with possession of marijuana after the officer observed them sitting in a car behind the stores.

Around 1:30 a.m. Thursday, Officer Jim Peterson arrested a Burlington man for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. Duane E. King, 25 of Winn Street, was also charged with speeding, and failing to keep to the right and later a computer check revealed outstanding warrants for his arrest from Amherst.

Wednesday evening Officers Mauriello and Waterhouse picked up Joseph Raymond of Rock Street, Lowell at the Lowell Police Department on a OUI default warrant.

After investigation of an accident at Glen Road and Main Street, Friday evening, Officer Chris Neville arrested Daniel Bean, 44 of Sheafe Street, Malden and charged him with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol. The operator of the other vehicle, David Gaffey of Elm Street, Tewksbury escaped injury in the rear end collision.

Methuen police arrested Norberto Martinez, address unknown on a motor vehicle default warrant. He was picked up and held at the Wilmington station Saturday night. Monday morning Officer Mauriello arrested Christopher Vasseur, 20 of Ridgewood Road, Burlington on a motor vehicle default warrant.

Three stolen cars were recovered Sunday after being hauled out of the water in the old gravel pits off Aldrich Road in Billerica. A diving team composed of Officer Bill Gable of Wilmington and Capt. Armon

Caron of Chelmsford, was used to recover the cars from the deep waters of the gravel pit. Two of the cars had been stolen within the past two weeks and the third had been in the water for some time. Wreckers from Wilmington Exxon were used to pull the cars from the water.

Motorcycle fatality

Monday afternoon a 19-year-old Lynn man was killed in a motorcycle - truck accident on Industrial Way. Shawn Bruce of William Place was pronounced dead at the Regional Health Center in Wilmington. He was a passenger on a motorcycle driven by Robert Parker, 23 of Manor Road, Beverly.

Parker was also injured and taken to the Regional Health Center where he was treated and released. The driver of the trailer truck was Clifford Singais of Lowell Road, East Pepperell.

Officer James Cuoco is heading up the investigation along with investigators from the Registry of Motor Vehicles. At this point the cyclist has been issued citations for motor vehicle violations, but the investigation is continuing and may be referred to the district attorney's office.

Health center presents calcium program for women

With so much in the media lately about women and calcium, the Regional Health Center in Wilmington is offering a workshop entitled "Calcium and Women: Are You Getting Enough?" on Thursday, May 9 from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

This workshop will address factors affecting the body's use of calcium, including exercise, medications, special diets and others. Diseases associated with calcium deficiency such as osteoporosis, Alveolar bones loss and high blood pressure (hypertension) will be discussed.

Ways to increase calcium intake, including sources, differences between supplements, exercises and estrogen therapy will also be addressed.

The program is coordinated by Elvira Johnson, R.D., M.S., nutrition service coordinator, and implemented by Carol Barron and Linda Teuwen, adult seniors from Framingham State College who are eligible to become registered dietitians. They are dietetics students with experience in teaching.

Audiovisual and handouts will be used to enhance the workshop information.

Participants are encouraged to ask questions about any concerns they may have in relation to calcium and bone disease.

Pre-registration is required by calling 657-3910, ext. 567. The Regional Health Center in Wilmington is a division of Choate-Symmes Health Services.

Animal trap captures garden pests

Einar Olson of Lowell Street, Wilmington is a man who made his own animal trap, to stop animal raiders. It works.

An animal finds it easy to get in the trap, and impossible to get out. The animal is locked in until Einar makes up his mind on what to do with it.

Wild animals were raiding his garden last summer. Then, one night a possum took off with the family rooster. That's when Einar decided that some protective action was necessary.

Last year Einar captured five possum, 10 skunks and a woodchuck. He also captured a number of rabbits. Einar says there were "lots of them." He took those rabbits about two miles away, and then released them.

Einar has a brother who lives in Karlshamm, in Sweden, and who also makes animal traps. Those traps are for the purpose of catching moles.

The European mole, like its American cousin, likes to dig under lawns. But it does so with more vigor, and the lawns are wrecked to a much worse degree.

Einar's brother has a patent on his mole trap. According to Einar, his brother is selling mole traps in all countries of Europe where there are golf courses. It is a profitable business, Einar reports.

Animal trap Einar Olson of Lowell Street, Wilmington and his own version of a wild animal trap. It works.

Birthdays

Jean King of North Street, Wilmington, faithful employee of Pineridge Cleaners, North Wilmington, for years, and affectionately known as "Clean Jean" did observe a birthday this year — but, this column inadvertently omitted it — sorry, Jean turned another page on April 16.

Jeffrey Van Horne of Vernon Street, Tewksbury will be 10 years old on April 28 and will share his special day with Stacy Stoddard of Pleasant Street who will be 11; Keith Alfeiri of Beech Street and Wilmington resident Fred Fahey of Federal Street, who will be celebrating for the 84th time.

April 29 will mark the special day of Leila Mento of Sesame Street, Tewksbury who will blow out the candles for the eighth time and John Robarge of Cunningham Street, Wilmington.

At least three Tewksbury residents will be celebrating birthdays on April 30 — Kimberly Bedard of Grasshopper Lane, who will be 11; Elizabeth Rebelo of Vernon Street who will mark her 10th birthday and Mary Fabiano of Brentwood Road.

Donald Murray of Lloyd Road, Tewksbury will mark his 16th birthday on May 1 and will share greetings with Christina Miller of Pine Street who will become a teenager; Julianne Carey of Arlington Street who will be 11; Jeffrey Bearce of Guile Avenue and Wilmington residents Shawn Gorski of Nichols Street, Tom Casey of Oakdale Road, and Ronnie McCoy of Kenwood ## Avenue.

Artie Kivlehan of Burnap Street, Wilmington will be a year wiser on May 2 and will share his special day with Bobby Caruso of Chapman Avenue, Tewksbury who will be 12; Suzanne Bourque of Maple Street who will be 15 and Lindsey Beth Ogden of Rogers Street who will face a birthday cake glowing with two candles on May 2.

David Cassidy Sr. of Burnap Street, Wilmington will turn another page on May 3. Others celebrating on May 3 include Tommy McHugh of Church Street, Wilmington, Vinny McCoy of Kenwood Avenue, Kevin Riddle of Chestnut Street and Tewksbury resident Angela Busa of McKenzie Circle who will become a teenager on May 3.

Golden Agers

Camp Fire registration Monday night

Camp Fire registration for boys and girls in grades K through three will be held Monday, April 29 at 7 p.m. at St. Thomas' Villanova Hall.

Monday evening's program will include: an overview of Camp Fire programs for the parents, "Indian Friendship sticks" for the boys and girls, and refreshments for all.

Camp Fire clubs for September will be formed at Monday evening's program. Parents who are interested in learning about the Camp Fire alternative should return the "interest flyer" that was sent home through the schools and plan to attend registration night.

Pre-school children who will begin kindergarten in the fall are eligible for the Camp Fire Sparks program. In September, parents will receive more information about this exciting new program which is especially designed for boys and girls in kindergarten. Sparks registration will take place in the fall after the younger children have settled in to their school routine.

Camp Fire club leaders are trained by professional educational consultants and supported throughout the year by a network of experienced volunteers. Camp Fire is a "family affair" and parents of each member volunteer for at least one helping activity during the course of the year. In this way, all parents have an opportunity to show their interest and support of their child's Camp Fire program.

Camp Fire leaders and the children in their clubs can choose from a variety of fun and challenging activities: camping and outdoor living skills, Peer Proofing, Caution without Fear, the Museum of Science camps, the National Art competition, Many Cultures Make up Our World trips, training and events, Growing up Smart, leadership labs, Children's Awareness Training, science link-ups, and many, many more.

"Camp Fire clubs provide a flexible structure for encouraging children's emerging social skills," explains Stephanie Meegan, educational consultant and Camp Fire volunteer. "Camp Fire activities and programs offer both boys and girls direction for exploring their own personal interests and talents."

Camp Fire is a national non-profit, recreational and educational youth organization for boys and girls from ages five through 18. Camp Fire has been helping youngsters enjoy childhood for 75 years.

For more information about Camp Fire programs or registration, please contact Linda Nepvue at 657-6455 or Renzill Rongone at 658-5584.

Junior varsity baseball

Redmen start fast

Tewksbury's junior varsity baseball team came up with three victories this past week and upped its record to 4-0 on the year.

Monday the team defeated Chelsea, 11-3 as freshmen righthander Tom Gallella struckout 15 Chelsea batters, walked three and gave up four hits while posting his second victory for the Redmen. Joe Kearns went two for two and walked twice, while Jay Rideout belted a long two run triple.

Wednesday the Redmen belted Greater Lawrence Vocational, 12-5. Chris Mader pitched two scoreless innings in relief of Ron Mueller and picked up the victory.

Mader helped his own cause by slamming a two run home run in the fifth inning. Pat Brooks went two for two at the plate and Joe Kearns had two triples and a single.

Friday Tewksbury trailed Dracut 8-3 after four and one half innings of play. In the Redmen half of the fifth inning they came up with two runs and cut the Middies' lead to 8-5.

TMHS girls' track

TMHS girls pull upset, 69-62

Last week the Tewksbury High School girls' track team pulled off an exciting upset victory over Lowell at Cawley Stadium.

In a hard fought contest that saw Tewksbury take first place in nine of the 16 events, the meet wasn't decided until Renee Juchnevics took second place in the 220, the last event before the mile relay. That put the score at 69-62 Tewksbury, and that became the final score when Lowell chose not to field a relay team.

Fran Mulrain, senior and co-captain of the Tewksbury team, took two very important first places. In the triple jump she continued her string of victories by leaping 31'7". Later in the crucial 400 meters, Fran powered ahead of the out-standing Lowell 400 runners to win with the exceptional time of :61.3.

Nancy Menezes, a sophomore who is already the top discus thrower in the conference, hurled the disc 111'3" for the best mark in the conference this season. Nancy also won the shot put, thus contributing 10 points to the TMHS cause.

Peggy Forsyth, who is establishing herself as one of the best milers in the conference, won the mile with ease.

Tewksbury completed its dominance of the distance events by winning the two mile and 880 as well. Krissie Connor, a freshman, ran away from her Lowell competition to take the deuce by a wide margin.

Kerry Silk, also a freshman, charged to the finish with a spectacular finishing kick to take first in the 880.

Lisa Thayer, yet another freshman who is showing great promise, overcame some early shakiness in the high jump and won the event with a 4'6" leap. Renee Juchnevics, an athlete who can run almost every event, completed Tewksbury's first place finishes with a winning throw in the javelin. Renee also took second places in the high jump and the 220.

While the first places were crucial, it was the second and third places that decided the meet. Tewksbury's fine sprinter, Justine Short (another freshman) took two important second places in the long jump and the 100 meters.

Sandy Keon, who is quickly learning the discus event (and who is of course, a freshman) threw a remarkable 85' to take second place behind Nancy Menezes. Sandy also threw the javelin well enough to take third place in that event.

Tewksbury's one other second place was taken by Sue McLaughlin (a "veteran" sophomore) who hung tough with two Lowell runners in the mile, then ran away from them on the last lap.

Finally, the third places, any one of which could be called the point that won the meet, were taken by Amy DiGiorgio in the hurdles; Chrissy Frotten, who ran another courageous race in the two mile; Tricia Censullo with a strong 330 low hurdle race and Jeanne Muise, who ran an excellent 880.

Tewksbury's victory over a school that is a Large School track power shows that despite its youth and inexperience, TMHS is a team to be reckoned with in the conference this season.

Wilmington Tennis Club

Mixer opens outdoor season

The Wilmington Tennis Club will begin its outdoor season with a mixer this weekend (April 27-28) at the Avco courts.

Both club members and non-members are welcome and should call Kevin Field at 658-2825 to sign up. The format will be mixed doubles five round, Swiss tournament. (If you don't know what a Swiss tournament is, go and find out. Partners will be chosen by lot.)

The officers of the club are headed up this year by President Tom O'Malley, former treasurer of the club who also maintains the hectic men's singles ladder during the summer. Patrick Hoffman is vice president, Irene Hoffman is secretary and Janet Cahill is treasurer.

The officers are planning many activities this spring and summer in addition to the ladders. A junior boys and girls clinic is also on the schedule. A second annual member-guest tournament is being planned as well as a possible "over 35" tournament. In addition to these programs, the club will also be sponsoring the annual Barry Cahill "Family Day Special" and the fall tournaments.

Ladder play will start Monday, April 29. The club maintains men's and women's singles and doubles ladders as well as mixed doubles ladder and the junior (under 16) boys and girls singles ladder.

Ladder play is a way of providing competitive tennis at all levels. A player can challenge another player up to four spots higher up on the ladder. If the challenger wins, the players exchange spots on the ladder. In this manner the better players should move up the ladder and all players can play at their own level of skill. Thus, one has potentially many possible playing partners.

Town residents interested in playing on the ladders, or participating in the club's other activities, or needing more information are welcome to call any of the officers. Tom O'Malley, 658-4660; Janet Cahill, 657-4206; or Patrick and Irene Hoffman, 658-7411.

TMHS boys' track

Shorthanded Redmen fall, 78-67

The absent 16 members of the Tewksbury High School varsity track and field team spelled the difference in a 78-67 loss to Large School opponent Lowell in MVC action last week.

Considering that 73 points wins a meet, the Redmen in actuality fell six points short of a goal that most definitely would have been attained if not for the fact that the MVC schedules meets between a Large School and a Small School during a vacation week.

Vacation schedule plans in advance of the track season, and the opportunity to work fulltime for a week, put a dent in what still may be a successful Tewksbury season.

Saturday 13 members of the team represented the Redmen at the Haverhill Invitational, with mixed results.

Lowell 78 Tewksbury 67
A tough and sometimes gutsy effort almost pulled out the meet for the Tewksbury boys, but many missing key performers sealed a 78-67 loss. There were several excellent performances, but none better than the mile run, in which Steve Murphy was able to defeat Lowell's top distance man by one-tenth of a second, passing his opponent right at the wire.

Cremins of Lowell held a one step lead every step of the way until the last two steps. Murphy's 4:40.4 time was a career best for the senior co-captain.

Jim Field fought off a bad back to out jump his Lowell opponents with a 5'8" leap.

Mark Christoffels remained undefeated in the triple jump, 40'6 1/2". Ed Piscopo outkicked teammate Rich Lapham in a fast 52.7 400 meter run.

Joe Hannon did the same in the 800 meter run, defeating teammate Mike Goodine, who was also determined to compete with a tough muscle pull in his thigh.

The mile relay team needed a fast finish kick from Ed Piscopo to win with a 3:50.6 time. Joe Hannon, Steve Murphy and Tim McGaffery were also part of the winning team.

Second place finishers were led by an impressive performance by sophomore David French, who threw 25 feet better than his best ever with a 139' javelin toss.

Co-captain Buddy MacAllister took second in both the long and triple jumps. Joe Hannon, in the pole vault, Kenn Coviello in both the 100 and 200 meter runs, Jim Field in the 300 meter low hurdles, and Robbie Busch in the two mile, added to Goodine in the 800 meters, and Lapham in the 400 meters, all secured important second place finishes.

Third place finishers were led by sophomore Eric Meininghaus, who ran in the 300 meter low hurdles for the first time in his short track career.

Kenn Coviello placed in his third event with a third in the long jump, while teammates Sean Doherty in the discus, Buddy MacAllister in the 100 meter high hurdles, Rich Lapham in the 100 meters, Brian Tremblay in the mile and Mark Christoffels in the 200 meters, also contributed third place points.

Sean Lignehan did not place in the two mile, but showed great time improvement in the meet's longest event.

Haverhill Invitational
A meet open to schools in both Massachusetts and New Hampshire was well attended, with Tewksbury being no exception. Scorers for the Redmen in a meet that has six places were as follows.

Steve Murphy with a fifth place finish and Ed Piscopo with a sixth place finish, ended with identical 2.03.7 times, personal bests for both in the 800 meter run.

Mark Christoffels with a 40'8" jump was good enough for fifth place.

Bay State Games expand

Weightlifting, wrestling and volleyball are part of the greatly expanded 1985 Bay State Games program. This summer some of the state's finest athletes in these and 16 other sports will be competing in the Bay State Games Finals July 11-14 in Boston.

"The Summer Games will feature outstanding athletes in these sports," remarked Kevin Cummings, Sports Coordinator of the Games. "The popularity of these sports on the Olympic level has increased the participation and caliber of skill in our own competition."

Regional qualifiers for the games will take place April 20 through June 2. To be eligible, all athletes must live, work or go to school in the region for which they plan to compete. A minimal entry fee entitles every athlete to a Bay State Games t-shirt and finalists receive a warm-up jacket or team uniform. Winners at the finals will be awarded Bay State Games gold, silver or bronze medals.

Wrestlers can qualify by participating in one of five pre-existing USWF meets. The wrestling competition will be broken down into divisions for boys' scholastic and men's open. On-site registration will take place at all meets and no prior entry is required.

Entry forms for these and the other Bay State Games sports are available by calling the Bay State Games office at (617) 727-3227. All athletes, except wrestlers, must submit an official entry form to the Bay State Games prior to the date of their regional qualifier.

Call the Bay State Games for more information and specific tryout dates.

Cut down

In the bottom half of the sixth Tewksbury scored seven runs on six hits, as Joe Kearns had two hits in the same inning. Pat Brooks, Chris Mader and Jeff Larson all singled and Brian Aylward doubled. Tewksbury now led 12-8 after six innings of play.
However, the Dracut Middies fought back in the top of the seventh and tied the game at 12 all. With two outs in the bottom of the seventh, Todd Breslin walked, stole second and scored on Rick LeDuc's clutch RBI single to centerfield.
Chris Mader earned the pitching victory in relief and led the Redmen offense with a three for four day. Joe Kearns also had a fine afternoon at the plate with two singles and two walks. Todd Breslin walked five times.

The Redmen put their undefeated record on the line Monday at Methuen, then travel to Wilmington on Wednesday and take on Lawrence in Tewksbury Friday afternoon.

Developer seeks land for office park

by Arlene Surprenant
Orlando Barletta of the Barletta Construction Corp. of Norwood is seeking to build a "clean" office park on 37 acres of town-owned land on South Main Street. This proposal can only go through if he is successful in obtaining the land through Article 42 at this Saturday's town meeting.

Barletta went before the Wilmington Board of Selectmen Monday to explain his plans, despite the possibility of a three year moratorium on land sales which may shoot down his proposal.

His company, explained Barletta, is a "credible" family operation. "If it has our name on it, it's going to be first class," he said.

Barletta would like to buy the Main Street site because of its proximity to Route 128 and because the site lends itself to several office buildings. He has already spoken to computer and research type companies who'd like to move into Wilmington. As far as computer companies, he said, Wang has "saturated" Lowell. Now companies are moving south because the employees are there and it would cut short a long commute.

The price tag of such a project would probably be close to $25 million, judging from preliminary studies, Barletta said.

Rocco DePasquale was a little dubious. This site, he said, is one of those pieces of land which "justifies our moratorium." It was taken by the town many years ago to provide Wilmington with a public dumping facility.

Since no dump was ever built there, the land should be offered first to the original owners, he said. Otherwise it may be considered illegal to sell the land to someone else.

Wilmington senior topics

Town meeting Saturday

This Saturday, April 27 the annual town meeting will be held in Wilmington High School's gymnasium, starting at 1:30 p.m.

It is very important that every senior citizen (60 years of age or over) attend this meeting. The Council on Aging's budget which is needed to meet the needs of all the seniors in the town will be voted on by the voters. Article 27 on the warrant is also important.

The donations from the seniors and their friends have been very helpful in renovating the Buzzell School into the Senior Citizen center, but we feel the burden of paying for the renovation has been placed too heavily on the shoulders of the seniors alone.

Over $40,000 of the money raised has been put into the building and that is not counting the free labor by the carpenters' union and the Shawsheen Valley Technical High School students with an estimated value of $50,000. We are therefore petitioning the voters for $39,000 to complete the renovation.

The article has been disapproved by the finance committee and the town manager. To get it to pass, it will be necessary for every senior citizen present at the meeting. Seniors are urged to attend and vote in favor of these articles.

Nurse Thursday

The nurse will return to the Center Thursday. She will be checking blood pressures and giving the diabetes test. These tests are given at the center for the convenience of seniors. Through the diabetes test it has been found many seniors have diabetes and don't know it. Others have found that their sugar levels are getting too high.

They are referred to their doctors.

Therapeutic social

The Council on Aging therapeutic social for May will be a chicken pie dinner with all the trimmings. It will be held Thursday evening May 16 at the Tewksbury - Wilmington Elks Hall. Music for dinner and dancing will be provided by Jim Blute. Registration will be held at the center starting this Thursday. A $2.00 non-refundable deposit will be required when signing up.

Lorrie Eno, senior aide

Senior Aide Lorrie Eno has moved to Florida. She will be missed at the Center. Unfortunately this leaves no senior at the center. Anyone knowing of a person over the age of 55 on low income is asked to call Carole Burns at Minuteman Homecare, 1-862-6200 for an interview. The person who fills the bill should be able to type and does not have to live in Wilmington.

Drawing

Congratulations have been extended to Attorney Jim Banda who won the combination tv and radio raffled off last Thursday. Jim has donated many hours of legal service to the Buzzell Senior Center Renovation Committee as well as purchasing many raffle tickets.

—Edith Cunningham

Career program

Wilmington students learned about computer-aided manufacturing from Norm Huot during a recent career awareness program at Avco.

Wilmington students visit Avco

Students from Wilmington's junior high schools and the high school participated in two "new twist" programs at Avco designed to give young people a clearer idea of the structure of a business and their own goals for an occupation. The program was jointly planned by John Fouhy of Avco and Sandra Roberts of the schools' Career Development Program.

Students appeared in a conference room at Avco to speak with human resource and public affairs employees about career choice and advancement. Students were escorted to their test lab, computer design and computer-aided manufacturing areas for interviews of people on the job.

Jim Palman, senior systems safety engineer for Avco took his vital interest in effective communication to the West Intermediate School to share with Mike Veves' English classes. Mr. Palman demonstrated different types of communication and explained the importance of the developmental type in which people ask information gathering questions. Students then played a career game in which they formed departments and actually manufactured a product all the while solving communication and business problems brought to them. They even invented some new problems showing how clearly they understood the point of the game.

WATER TREATMENT IN NORTH WILMINGTON ARTICLE 19

ANNUAL TOWN MEETING, APRIL 27, 1985

Purpose:

- To treat the water from the Salem Street, Brown's Crossing and Barrows Pumping Stations.
- To improve the water quality. The wells have high levels of iron and manganese, causing consumer complaints.
- Planning: This is the second phase of the Water Department's program to upgrade the water system in North Wilmington. Previously 8,400 feet of old 2 inch pipe were replaced with 8 inch pipe. The third phase will be to construct a water tank in the Town Forest.

Cost:

- The project will cost $6.4 million dollars.
- There will be no effect on the tax rate. It will be financed by water rates.
- An increase of about 70 percent in water rates can be expected.

Time Frame:

- If the project is approved now, the water treatment plant will be ready for operation in 1988.
- Location: Water department property at Barrows Wellfield.
- Plant Design: Similar to existing treatment plant at Butters Row.

To improve the quality of our water supply, the Board of Water Commissioners asks your support of Article 19.

SPRING HOME IMPROVEMENT

Take advantage of insulation tax credit now

If you're thinking of adding additional insulation to your home, the CertainTeed Home Institute recommends that you do it now, so you can still take advantage of the insulation tax credit. The credit, which equals 15 percent of the first $2,000 invested, up to a maximum of $300, expires December 31, 1985.

The credit applies to fiber glass insulation as well as other types of attic or sidewall insulation; caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows and doors; modified flue openings; automatic furnace ignition systems; clock thermostats; and other energy conservation products.

To qualify, products must have been purchased and installed in a principal place of residence built prior to April 20, 1977. The residence may be a single family home, condominium or co-operative.

Renters (as well as owners) are eligible for the tax credit, as long as they pay for the insulation themselves. Vacation homes are excluded.

The 15 percent of the first $2,000 invested refers to materials and labor costs of a contractor. The credit is subtracted from the final amount of a resident's Federal tax liability. It is not a deduction, but a credit off the bottom line.

For more information, consult your local Internal Revenue Service office, or write to the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482, for a free brochure which explains the tax credit in more detail.

Knowing how to caulk and when ensures good seals and economy

The average do-it-yourselfer who looks on the row upon row of tubes and cartridges containing various caulks and sealants has every right to be confused.

All too often, the manufacturer's descriptive information on the label is designed to outdo the competition's label in claims, with minimal information about appropriate applications, application techniques and other important data which ensure that the user gets his or her money's worth.

Usually, the best information for the consumer is found in the manufacturer's documents which describe the products and their attributes for the sales and marketing staff.

A brief technical description of the most popular sealants, including their durability, adhesion, cure time and clean-up solvents, plus a synopsis of preferable application situations, distilled from more than a dozen different generic product descriptions and applied to the nine most frequent sealing situations, has been developed and released by Red Devil, Inc., of Union, NJ.

The most popular sealants, according to Red Devil, are Silicone Sealants, Siliconized Acrylic/Latex, Acrylic Latex, Latex and Butyl which are used on most D-I-Y situations.

Application analysis

Special application sealants, such as non-flammable mortar for use at fireplace and furnace installations, asphalt-based materials for application on roofs, and certain combinations of latex with mortar or cement are also included in the applications analysis.

At the top of the list is the silicone sealant, which can be expected to last for 20 or more years. It has excellent adhesion characteristics, especially to newly-primed surfaces, takes a day to cure and requires mineral spirits, naphtha or paint thinner for a solvent.

Silicone sealant provides tight, water-resistant seals which will stretch and contract under thermal changes to maintain the seal.

Its best applications are around windows, door jambs, and roof gutters, and on RVs and boats. It adheres well to aluminum, glass, plastic, fiberglass and most metals, and can be applied indoors or out.

Siliconized Acrylic/Latex formulae have longer expected lifespans; some are warranted for as long as the original user owns the home to which it was applied.

SOLID VINYL SIDING gives homes the look of natural wood clapboard but never needs painting. Its advantages over other siding materials have made it the No. 1 choice of the American homeowner, according to Bird Incorporated, a leading manufacturer of vinyl siding and accessories.

Home improvements revitalize, refresh for spring, 1985

Winter is finally over. The spring sky is bright and clear, the air warm, and the "extra" hours of daylight are an especially welcome change from the winter darkness. This season of new beginnings is invigorating and refreshing, and there are many lovely weeks yet to come.

During the winter months, you and your family spent a great deal of time indoors. Now you're faced with an accumulation of books and magazines which kept you occupied during cozy evenings at home. Countless pairs of dripping boots and shoes have trekked through the house, and harsh winter weather has battered the exterior of your home.

For many people, the traditional spring cleaning and home improvement rituals are the solution to these situations.

At this time of the year, there are closets to reorganize, a layer (or two) of winter grime to remove from windows, and perhaps there are several minor repair jobs to be undertaken by the enterprising do-it-yourselfer.

Plan ahead

By planning in advance, organizing your time efficiently, and making adequate preparations for each job, you will find that all these projects can be accomplished satisfactorily without severely disrupting your regular schedule.

Don't try to do every chore in one grand sweep. First, decide on a specific time span during which a spring overhaul of your living quarters will be the priority, and then decide the same for work on the exterior of your home.

A single weekend might be sufficient, or maybe a two-week period of less concentrated work would be preferable, depending on your temperament and the condition of your home.

Consider whether you would rather spend two days concentrating exclusively on cleaning, reorganizing and repairing, or if you would prefer to space these jobs over a longer period, devoting shorter intervals to these projects.

You may want to arrange your schedule so that you do related jobs during a single period of time, but this isn't necessary.

If you dread reorganizing the closets more than any other job, you may want to do one each day, or maybe you'll find it easier to complete this project before starting another.

Within the framework you've chosen, designate the jobs you plan to do at specific times, balancing the more complicated, time-consuming jobs with simpler, less involved tasks that can be completed more quickly.

Be realistic about the length of time each project will take, and be sure to have everything available that you will need.

It is much less frustrating to spend the necessary time in preparation than to be forced to interrupt a project because you need to go to the hardware store or search the basement for a nail of the correct size.

Although rain may disrupt your schedule for outdoor work, planning for this possibility will help you be prepared to make the most of the situation.

Perhaps this would be the ideal time to give the kitchen a new coat of paint, or maybe there are some indoor repairs that you could tackle instead.

Family involvement

Involving every member of the family in some part of the spring cleaning and home improvement projects will make these jobs seem less overwhelming.

Even young children can help to pack away their winter clothes and return warm weather clothes to drawers and shelves.

Be sure to consider all the ways that the interior of your home can be brightened. Does the bathroom need a new look? Or does the living room carpet need to be replaced?

By coordinating decorating and repair projects with the annual spring cleaning, you can rejuvenate your home, bringing the vibrance of the spring sunshine indoors.

WAY TO HIDE AN UGLY STOOP — This 7½x9½ foot deck is an example of a project you can build to cover a concrete stoop. ## Hide ugly stoop with deck

Does that concrete stoop at your home look like something from a construction site? Do discolored, uneven chunks of cement leading up to the doorway mar the beauty of your family's residence?

Breaking up and removing a stoop can be hard work, so consider something easier. Make it disappear beneath a deck of pressure-treated lumber.

A wooden deck is a much more inviting entry, and can be constructed at little cost and only a small investment of your time.

Pressure-treated lumber is surprisingly low in cost. You get all the usual advantages of wood — durability and natural attractiveness that blends in so well — plus the extra advantage of pressure treating. Built-in resistance to decay and moisture.

You may wonder just what pressure treating means. Simply put, the lumber has been protected by a vacuum process that forces preservatives deep into the cells of the wood. When you first see pressure-treated lumber it may have a yellow or green color. That's a result of the special treatment.

Pressure-treated lumber will fade to silver-grey when exposed to weather. You can allow it to go gray or stain it.

Arranging flowers for fun and profit

by Arlene Surprenant

Rarely do you meet a person who handles many roles as effectively as Wilmington's Lori Hart. Teacher, businesswoman, floral designer, wife, mother, creative artist — Lori deftly juggles all her responsibilities with very little time left over for herself. However, after talking with her for only a few hours, you learn she wouldn't have it any other way.

Lori set up her own floral design business in her home on Glen Road 11 years ago and it has been growing ever since.

Not one to confine her talents to one area, she has worked part time as a floral designer in a number of flower shops over the years. And she has shared her experience with a growing number of Wilmington residents, through classes in the community schools program and in her own home, and through numerous demonstrations for women's clubs, churches, and other organizations.

Amazingly, she has accomplished all this while married to a man she calls her biggest supporter and, at the same time, raising three independent children all under nine years of age.

Lori's day can get pretty hectic, especially when she is taking on all floral arrangements for a big wedding.

At such a time, she's up at 4:30 a.m. and on her way to the Boston Flower Exchange on Albany street to buy her flowers fresh. Since she can do nothing ahead, she often starts arranging her flowers the day before, to avoid wilting, and works right through the night. Then it's like "beat the clock" to try to get her work done on time.

"When I sell a wedding, I sell a whole service," she explains. Indeed she does. Her service usually includes centerpieces, flowers for the church and reception all, bride's bouquet, and all corsages. Lori helps set up at the church, pins corsages on the wedding party, helps the bride when she arrives, sometimes fixes flowers on the wedding cake, and only leaves when the bride walks down the aisle. For this personalized service Lori may charge an average $200.

Not only does she derive a sense of satisfaction from doing a good job, but she compares herself to an artist who finishes a perfect picture and breathes a sigh of relief when it's over.

Though this hectic pace slows down from Christmas to March,

Lori Hart

May seems to be her "marathon month." Starting this May, for instance, she has weddings planned for seven weekends in a row with as many as three weddings in a weekend.

And the only way her work will get done, she laughs, is to let the housework go and rely on a lot of support from family and friends, who help with babysitting chores.

Lori figures she presently does 40 or 50 weddings a year, once even shipping the works by U.P.S. for a wedding done in silk flowers in North Carolina.

Besides weddings, her business also includes flowers for banquets and special occasions such as anniversaries, proms, birthdays, and Holy Communion. Rarely does she do funerals, except as a favor, as "I don't enjoy them."

When she's not filling too many orders, Lori enjoys teaching classes of approximately 15 students each.

There seems to be a growing demand for her classes by young and old alike, as they tend to fill up fast. She teaches how to make all types of arrangements and centerpieces for home beautification and, more recently, taught a home course in miniature arrangements. Through careful buying of materials at wholesale prices, she is able to keep the cost of student projects to $20.

Her classes keep her "on my toes," she says, as she has to continually come up with new ideas. And though she offers individualized attention, she expects her students to do all of the work themselves.

She does enjoy demonstrating her craft, most often to the Wilmington Newcomers Club of which she is a member. She also can be found at the Lomas Floral Shop in Saugus as a part-time designer during the holiday season.

Though Lori claims the floral business is "a feast or famine business" and hard to break into, it's primarily run by families, she seems to thrive on the constant challenges. One advantage in running her own business is that she knows her schedule "a good six months in advance," which is helpful when you also have a family.

Her children, eight year old Kenneth (K.J.), six year old Julie, and Jennifer, an enchanting three year old, claim much of her attention as does husband Kenneth. Ken is a receiver at Star Market and is "always willing to pitch in" when she needs an extra pair of hands.

Lori thinks back to her wedding day preparations and the floral consultant who did her wedding, giving her a glimpse into a whole new world. Being good with her hands, having some creative ability, and liking people, Lori decided right then that floral design was her field.

A three month course at the Simmons Floral Design School to learn her profession led to part-time job opportunities at O'Toole's in Wilmington, Hillside Florists in Woburn, and the Star Market floral department.

Lori stresses that anyone wanting to succeed in the business should be professionally trained as it "pays off in the end." Even though she teaches, for example, how to make a bow in a short period of time, it takes a few months training and experience to really get the hang of it.

What qualities should a successful designer possess? The answers come quickly. Patience, persistence, a certain creative flair, a willingness to work hard, and an ability to come up with unique ideas.

One quality Lori possesses and one which may not be a character plus, she laughs — is a tendency toward perfection. She works hard to get each arrangement and design exactly as the client wants it.

She also claims she's "a real softie" who will never get rich through her business. Just as long as she continues to enjoy it and makes other people happy, she'll continue her efforts.

Though new design concepts are continually introduced and she feels she's "still learning after 11 years," Lori says she's reached a point in her life where she'd like to work "a little less hard."

"I don't want the job to run me; I want to run it," she says firmly.

Eventually she may open a small gift shop, perhaps in her own home, and open only a few months out the year. Or perhaps a floral school of her own would be nice. She's not sure. One thing is certain: a bright future stretches ahead for this multi-talented housewife and businesswoman.

How to arrange silk flowers (the Lori Hart way)

1. Put floral foam in your chosen container.
2. Cover foam with moss.
3. Green up: Place greens in foam as a background, almost like framing a picture.
4. If you are using a filler, such as Statice or Baby's Breath, use that next.
5. Arrange your focal flower.

This is the largest flower in the arrangement and, since it's so eye-catching, it carries the arrangement.

6. Start adding the rest of the silk flowers. Proceed with one color and work from the largest to the smallest.

7. Use filler flowers to fill in any noticeable holes.

Making Sure a Home Looks Well, Works Well

Vinyl siding: Popular choice among homeowners

Now that the fair-weather days of spring are almost here, homeowners across the country are faced with a decision they have been putting off all winter: "Should I repaint my home (again) or invest in siding?"

Every year, more and more homeowners are making their preference clear. They have decided to cross "exterior painting" off their list of household chores and go with solid vinyl siding as the smart choice.

For the first time in history, solid vinyl has surpassed aluminum as the most popular American siding material. Statistics show that use of vinyl siding has increased nearly 500 percent over the past 10 years.

And all indications are that this trend will continue.

Protect your new roof...

Blustery spring wind can be the cause of costly and damaging shingle blow-off

Unfortunately for many homeowners, when the wind whips up, the shingles on their roof blow off.

This common and costly problem can be mitigated, however, by adherence to proper application procedures and use of a wind tested and approved shingle.

Whether you do the reroofing job yourself or hire a professional roofing contractor, be sure to demand that shingles be secured and applied properly. Failure to do so not only may result in wind damage but affect the validity of the manufacturer's warranty.

New roofing shingles can be secured by nails or pneumatically driven staples. When using nails, shingles should be fastened with standard 1/4-in. flat head roofing nails of sufficient length to penetrate into the deck.

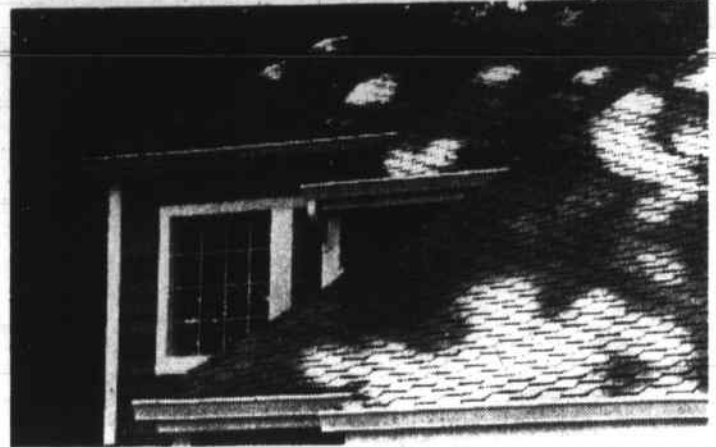

Check manufacturer's application instructions. In general, however, the nails per shingle should be placed just below the black self-sealing stripe and driven into the shingle straight and flush with the shingle tab.

Some larger shingles may require four or six nails. Tests conducted jointly by Manville and Underwriters Laboratories (UL) have proven that, when applied correctly, staples hold every bit as well as nails. An important advantage to the use of staples is that they typically speed the application process.

Staples should be applied with the crown of the staple parallel with and below the self-sealing stripe to a depth flush with the shingle. Further, to conform with most manufacturers' warranties, staples must be driven with an approved pneumatic stapler.

Air pressure gauge is mandatory with pressure set at 90 psi. Staples must be zinc coated, no less than 16 gauge and used on a one-for-one basis with nails. Shingles should be stapled from the end nearest the shingle just laid, proceeding across the surface.

Consumers should be aware that not all

WIND DAMAGE to residential roofing can be a costly problem to homeowners. Experts at Manville advise homeowners to be sure shingles are secured properly and to insist on a shingle which has passed Underwriters Laboratories wind resistance test. The entire line of Johns-Manville fiber glass shingles carries the UL Wind Resistance Label.

manufacturers have approval from UL for use of staples for their shingles. However, the entire line of Johns-Manville fiber glass shingles is approved and fully warranted for use with properly applied staples.

In addition to how the shingle is secured, the design and quality of the shingle can make a difference in its ability to withstand wind. Underwriters Laboratories applies stringent wind tests to shingles and, to those that pass, UL awards a "UL Wind Resistance Label."

In brief, the UL wind test includes the use of a wind-generating machine capable of delivering a stream of air at a velocity of 60 miles per hour. This stream of air is applied against a test panel of shingles adjusted to various inclines and distances from the machine for a two hour period. "RegalWood" from Johns-Manville is an example of a shingle that has passed the UL wind test and is warranted against gale force winds to 54 miles per hour. Composed of wear resistant fiber glass, RegalWood is an affordable fiber glass shingle that provides the rustic look of wood with an extra dimension of style and distinct geometric pattern.

RegalWood has a UL Class A fire rating and is covered by 25 year pro-rated warranty. A full color brochure on RegalWood, #RF-570, is available from Manville.

Moreover, the entire line of Johns-Manville fiber glass shingles has passed the UL wind resistance test and each carries the UL Wind Resistance Label. To obtain the free color brochure on RegalWood fiber glass shingles #RF-570 or a free full color brochure on the complete Johns-Manville shingle line #RF-316, write Manville Service Center, 1601 23rd Street, Denver, CO 80216.

Storage shed practical and attractive

Now is the ideal time to build that storage shed you've been thinking about building all winter. The one that will allow you to clean out the garage and provide year around storage for your seasonal tools and supplies.

Are your plans complete? Is the shed going to be an attractive addition to your yard? The Z-BRICK Company can answer some of your questions and eliminate some doubt with its recently introduced 32 page Project Booklet.

One of the many projects in the booklet is a step by step diagram and instruction sheet on how to build a storage shed that will be structurally sound and attractive with the use of decorative Z-BRICK.

Z-BRICK is an all mineral brick that is less than 1/2" thick but provides weather proofing, fireproofing and even adds an insulating factor to exterior siding and interior walls.

When your shed is complete you will have the appearance of a heavy masonry project but without the expense of hiring a professional craftsman.

Any do-it-yourselfer can create a professional appearing brick pattern with Z-BRICK. The many colors and textures available in Z-BRICK will enable you to create your own unique yet professional brick pattern.

THIS ATTRACTIVE OUTDOOR SHED takes up little room, yet it's large enough to store yard tools out of sight and weather. The shed is built with plywood, framing lumber and Z-Brick. Shown here is the Inca Used style.

A PAINTING JOB that would require four hours with a hand brush can be done in as little as an hour with a power sprayer.

Prepare before you paint

If you're planning to paint your house, remember that a successful paint job depends as much on the preparation of the surface as it does on the application of paint, say the people at Taylor Rental.

You should first determine whether you can reach all the surfaces to be painted with a step ladder or extension ladder, or whether you need scaffolding with a work platform.

Start by removing dirt and loose flaking paint from the sides of the house. This provides a clean surface for the new paint to adhere to. A pressure washer is ideal for this job.

Even after cleaning, previous layers of paint may need sanding, especially if they have begun to peel. The best tool is an electric disc sander designed specifically for this job.

Chips or cracks in the surface should be completely repaired with a wood filler or wood putty. If cleaning or sanding exposes bare wood or if unpainted wood is used for repairs, these areas should be primed before painting.

Priming helps prevent peeling of the new paint and gives your efforts a more professional look.

For the actual painting, an airless paint sprayer will make your task easier and faster. A four-hour brush job can be done in as little as one hour with a power sprayer.

You can get the benefit of these professional tools without a big investment of your money. All the tools you need to do a professional-looking job of painting can be rented.

To learn which tools you need for your particular requirements, check with the Taylor Rental outlet in your area, or write for a free brochure to Taylor Rental Corporation, 570 Cottage Street, Springfield, MA 01101.

Housework . . . don't you just hate it!

by Arlene Surprenant
To me, home improvement has always been a dirty word.

You'd think having a mother (and later a mother-in-law) who could whip up a batch of curtains, slipcovers, bedspreads, and other assorted necessities and who could pull together a room's decor perfectly would rub off. Not on your life! But I did learn to crochet doilies.

You'd think having a father who could literally raise a roof, add three bedrooms and a bath in an upstairs extension, build a sunroom and patio, and handily fix all sorts of things (except plumbing problems and a perpetually flooded basement) would teach me something. I wish!! But I did learn to hammer a nail.

You'd think mowing the lawn summers and devoting many hours to creative gardening and endless weeding chores would prepare me for the beautification of the three homes I've lived in since childhood. Fat chance!! But I have had some success growing tomatoes and watching dandelions dot my lawn each year.

What I'm trying to get at here is a home improvement expert I'm not. And neither, it seems, is the man I married.

Take our first home in Levittown, New York — a nice boxy tract type house in a post-war development of homes that have since established their individuality.

All we wanted that first year was a little privacy. My husband and his willing friends assured me they'd take care of it. A natural wooden fence would do the trick, they said. Hours of cutting wood, creosoting the posts, digging the holes, and finally erecting the fence was a source of inestimable pride. Until that first hurricane saw it blown to the ground. Undaunted, they tried again, and again, and again.

When we decided we needed a dining area in which to entertain a growing number of friends, we had the bright idea of converting an extra bedroom into a dining room. Unfortunately, no matter what we did, it still looked like a bedroom.

Our next home — a huge split level with a New Orleans balcony and anti-bellum type columns across the front in North Babylon, New York — was to stay in the family for nine years. This time, we decided to do things right.

We bought a baby grand piano for our Spanish style living room and only gashed one hole in the stairwell wall trying to move it upstairs. But no need to worry. My mother-in-law generously agreed to paper over the wall with some lovely black and gold flopped paper.

When we saw how nice that looked, we couldn't wait to redo our small bathroom with pink floral sanitis. heavy pink floral sanitis.

Despite soem initial difficulty with the wrong paste and a husband who refused to have anything further to do with the project, I proudly completed the job in a record three days and as many nights. And it didn't look bad for my first attempt. So what if the flowers were mismatched, the sanitis didn't quite meet the baseboard, and the room literally screamed bright pink flowers.

Our best decision, though, was to convert a plain old basement running the length of the house into a glorious playroom and extra guest room. Some orange indoor-outdoor carpeting, shelving for bowling trophies and books, a homemade pinewood bar courtesy of my father, and a slapped together guest room made our home the local weekend hangout for many years thereafter. If only we could have figured out how to keep the cold from seeping in from the attached garage.

On to the great outdoors. Having two daughters by this time, and a desire to live the good life outdoors, we explored ways of improving our yard.

An above-ground pool and patio was a must and quickly became a reality without too much trouble.

A barbeque pit, though a little on the Leaning Tower of Pisa side, was our pride and joy and the focus of many Fourth of July block parties and summer barbeques. And a profusion of tulip and gladioli blubs planted one year were quickly unearthed by a steady stream of squirrels as we gloomily watched. So much for beautification.

When we moved to Wilmington, we congratulated ourselves. We had finally found the perfect house, complete with an in-ground pool and an acre or so of woods in our backyard.

So what if ants, crickets, mice, rabbits, a dead bat, and a drowned skunk (our pool remained deserted for many weeks thereafter) moved in with us. So what if we had to re-tile a few floors, re-paint a few rooms, and erect a small doghouse for one very large Siberian Husky.

We were content. We are content. And any future work or improvements will be left strictly to the professionals. Amen.

Accessories for "quick change" artistry

Picture a room that's totally beige carpet, wall and sofas. Then imagine a tall black urn standing in the corner and striking ebony accents scattered about.

Quick change! That same room is now ablom with accessories in romantic pastels. A peach tone vase sits on one table. Dramatically grouped on another is a bevy of bowls boasting silk pastel bouquets.

With just a little bit of imagination, you can visualize the very different sense of each room, created by the presence of accessories and the effect of their colorways.

The first and lasting impression of a room is most often its color. One tends to recall an oasis of calm after leaving a roomscape of neutral tones. A cheerful yellow room will be remembered as bathed in sunlight.

A few striking accessories or dramatic groupings will transform the color scheme or mood of a room more easily and inexpensively than any other category of furnishing, and you can feel up-to-date without having made a major investment.

Start with your basics. Then, build and change with accessory accents. Actually that is the secret of the best dressed women, as well as professional designers. The formula for accessory decorating is easy.

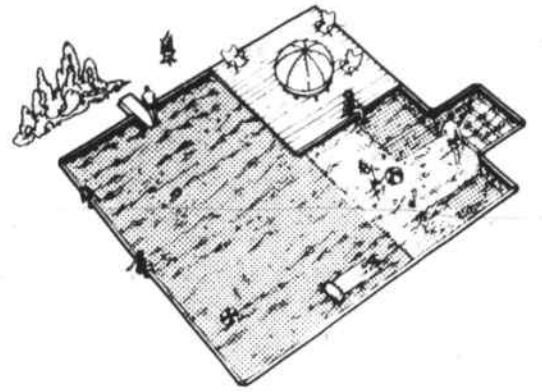

1. Determine your color choice or choices.

2. Decide whether you want striking contrasts or a monochromatic feeling.

3. Then, let your personal taste guide your choice. In addition to bringing a fresh look into your rooms, let your accessories reflect your interests or personality.

Be a "quick change artist" in your home by taking advantage of the wonderful selection of decorative accessories available to you in furniture stores.

Keeping pool clean and clear

Proper filtration and chemical use play important roles in providing clean and clear pool water, a major concern of all home swimming-pool owners.

As a matter of fact, they complement each other, according to Manville, producer of AquaCel diatomite filter aid. Effective filtration normally reduces the amount of chemicals required for a sanitary pool.

The filter's main job, says Manville, is to remove dirt and other matter from the water to clarify it. Complete, or nearly so, removal of particulates from the water by filtration permits the chlorine to effectively destroy bacteria, viruses and soluble organic matter.

The two most commonly used home pool filters employ either diatomite or sand. Diatomite filters require a "precoat" of diatomite filter aid on the filter screen. Actual filtration takes place through this precoat.

When the proper amount of precoat is used the precoat will be about 1/16 inch thick.

Care should be taken to follow the recommendations of the filter manufacturer or the information on the back of an AquaCel bag regarding the proper amount of filter powder to use.

The diatomite precoat in addition to removing unwanted dirt particles also prevents these same particles from plugging up the filter element cloth or wire cover, thus reducing filter element cleaning operations.

If the filter elements become plugged or clogged, follow the cleaning directions supplied by your filter manufacturer or consult with your pool water chemical supplier.

Springtime is caulking time

Spring is a good time to caulk outside. It's warm enough and yet not too hot. Caulk works best in moderate temperatures — from 50° to 80°F. If colder, you should heat the caulk to get the right consistency for good application. For the same reason, if it's over 85°F the caulk should be cooled.

Most homeowners check around window and door frames, joints where siding on corners meet each other or where siding of house meets the foundation, even around the window air conditioners. But some trouble spots are hidden by the flower beds or bushes — the areas around plumbing and exhaust pipes for example.

Check these areas. See if there are obvious cracks or spaces. . . if the caulk crumbles to the touch. Scrape out the crumbling caulk and debris and wash the area carefully. Then wipe dry.

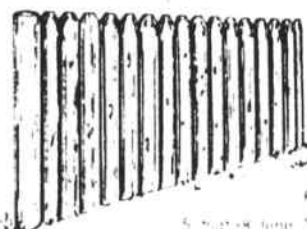

Apply Elmer's Acrylic Latex Caulk to the area, pushing it into the gap. Apply enough to the area so it is level with the surrounding surface. Use a putty knife or your fingers to smooth the patch.

Drug traffic and $100 bills

FM TALK: Our far-flung correspondent is on special assignment this week, but he left behind another edition of those offbeat tidbits of American history for you to mull over until he returns:

Only once in U.S. history has the federal government recalled currency because a counterfeit bill so real-looking appeared in circulation. The recall occurred in 1897 after a fake one hundred dollar bill that looked so authentic that it couldn't be distinguished from the real thing surfaced. A total of $26 million in one hundred dollar bills was withdrawn from circulation. (An interesting side note to this item: the federal government is currently considering the feasibility of withdrawing one hundred dollar bills again, only this time not because counterfeit money that can't be distinguished from the real stuff has appeared in circulation. The reason: the federal government thinks they might put a dent in drug trafficking if drug dealers are not able to exchange large currency.)

Our understanding of epilepsy has come a long way since the days when William McKinley was president. McKinley's wife suffered from epilepsy, and according to historical accounts, the president was embarrassed whenever his wife suffered from an attack while they were in public. One published account noted that McKinley always carried a handkerchief with him, so if his wife had an attack, he'd have the handkerchief to throw over her face.

McKinley had at least one other unusual habit too. He refused to be the first president to leave the boundaries of the United States in his first term. The most memorable example of his stubbornness to leave came in 1901 when he took a walk on the bridge that connects the United States and Canada at Niagara Falls. He crossed the bridge halfway, then turned around and came back.

Looking for an unusual way to conduct a dinner party? Consider this idea dreamed up around the turn of the century by a fellow by the name of C.K.G. Billings: Billings threw a dinner party at which every guest of honor sat on a horse! It was reported that the cost of the party ran $250 per person. Most of the cost, however, went to devising custom-made trays that could be used to hold the food on the horses. I think I'll stick to customary dinner party ideas, thank you.

You would never think of Douglas MacArthur as a "momma's boy," considering his magnificent record as a soldier. Yet he may have been teased as one by his classmates at West Point. Why? Because MacArthur's mother went with him to West Point. Well, not exactly. She took an apartment nearby the military college, so that she could keep an eye on her son.

We have all but forgotten the controversy boys and girls living together out of wedlock in the late sixties caused. Stories abounded about couples being tossed out of dormitories and apartment buildings because they were not married. But today premarital cohabitation is as common as frequenting the supermarket. Can you imagine how Maxim Gorky and his wife felt in 1901 when they were evicted from their New York City apartment because they couldn't convince the landlord that they were married? It turned out they were married.

Dixieland band to raise money for handicapped

By JIM ROUILLARD

"Some folks dream of the wonders they'll do before their time on this planet is through. Some just don't have anything planned. They hide their hopes and their heads in the sand."

— Tim Rice

Come next Christmas, if you see an upbeat group of people — with two and a traction of Santas in tow — whooping it up in the general vicinity of Stoneham, you'll know you're in touch with some of the remarkable members of that town's handicapped.

But long before that, on April 26th, in fact, whether Dixieland's your dish, or traditional or New Orleans jazz — the disabled of Stoneham will provide you the chance to hear it, first hand, at a concert by the superb New Black Eagle Jazz Band.

The New Black Eagle Band is said to produce a musical impact so stunning it drives audiences to their feet to scream their approval. And the Stoneham Commission for the Handicapped is bringing this musical phenomenon to you.

The Band, described as the top classic revival band in the early New Orleans jazz style, are, moreover, part-time musicians, each with his own "daytime" career. The group of seven men includes an internationally known pediatrician, a psychiatrist and a professor of dentistry, according to Commission members.

Consummate musicians, in the eyes of both critics and fans, the members of the band, which emerged from Boston, are is itself internationally known have produced polished music, including a series of 15 recordings, on their own and major labels.

They're slated to appear at the Stoneham High School, Franklin Street, on Friday, April 26, at 8 p.m. Call 438-2488 or 438-2755 for details and ticket information.

But your attendance, according to Commission members, won't just yield the chance to stand and shout your pleasure when you hear the band's complex layers of polyphonic sound.

It will also swell the scholarship fund of the Stoneham Commission for the Handicapped, and help to generate hope and opportunity, perhaps to enrich the life of a disabled student with training for special or vocational skills, or to assist the child of a disabled person with a chance for higher education.

We are now in the third year of the Decade of Disabled Persons, which will last until 1993. And it the members of the New Black Eagle Jazz Band seem remarkable — the officers and members of the Stoneham Commission for the Handicapped are no less so, for they include a paraplegic and a paralytic who drive their own vans to work every day, a paralyzed ham radio operator, and a blind piano tuner.

The Commission's aim, according to Secretary Mary Wiley, is to stress the importance of disabled persons' retaining their dignity, and to encourage the "able person" to help the disabled, and in the process derive satisfaction for himself as well.

"The able person should consider 'There but for the grace of God go I,'" added Jan Dawson, Commission liaison to the Stoneham Board of Selectmen, "or someday might go

Bloodmobiles scheduled

The American Red Cross of Mass Bay will be holding aquatic, first aid, and small craft schools at two sites in June. Classes at Camp Mah-Kee-Nac will be held in Lenox from June 8 through June 16. Classes at Camp Tevya in Brookline, N. H. will begin on June 9 and will continue through June 18.

These schools offer quick and thorough instructor training in many subjects such as water safety, adapted aquatics (teaching disabled persons to swim), lifeguarding, boating, first aid, and CPR. After completing the training given at these schools, many students have been employed as lifeguards, swimming, or boating instructors at waterfronts and recreational facilities.

The Winchester Chapter, American Red Cross will be offering two fully paid scholarships to students who are serious about gaining the knowledge offered at these schools and who are willing to apply it to good use in the near future. For further information and applications, please contact the Chapter at 39 Church St., Winchester or phone 729-2300.

Upcoming American Red

Cross bloodmobiles in the Eastern Middlesex Region are as follows:

—April 26, Friday, Immaculate Conception Church, Malden, 2 to 8 p.m.

—April 29, Monday, Melrose Community, First Congregational Church, 1 to 7 p.m.

—May 10, Friday, Wakefield K of C, K of C Hall, 2 to 8 p.m.

—May 14, Tuesday, Massachusetts Electric, Malden, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

—May 17, Friday, Reading High School, 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

The need for blood never goes away. Donors may give blood every eight weeks, so please donate on a regular basis. In general, anyone over 18 years of age who weighs at least 110 pounds, is in good health, and has never had hepatitis may donate. If you have any questions concerning your eligibility, please call the Eastern Middlesex office, 665-1351, or Northeast Region Blood Services, 1-800-442-2053.

The Middlesex Canal Association Annual Meeting will take place at the Charles River Museum of Industry in Waltham on Saturday, May 4 at 2 p.m. (From the City Hall on the Common on Main Street, take Moody Street S to Pine Street. Take R & Park in Embassy parking lot and cross Charles River footbridge to the museum.)

MIT Professor Michael B. Folsom will speak on the brand-new Industrial Archaeology Museum, soon to be opened. Prof. Folsom will give a talk on the museum's imaginative approach to the history of industrial technology and civil engineering by use of working models, exhibits and educational programs. There will be a MUSEUM TOUR, during which we will be introduced to a horse-drawn steam-powered pumper and other carefully restored steam engines, early Waltham watchmakers' tools and equipment all painstakingly and imaginatively displayed.

but the story made newspaper headlines anyway.

When you listen to the news on television, do you ever find yourself getting confused by which senator is head of what committee, and by which representative is on what committee? Here's a tidbit along those lines that'll surely add to the confusion: in 1906, Republican Senator Robert LaFollette was appointed to head up a committee that never met. The name of the committee was the Committee to Investigate the Condition of the Potomac River Front. Oh, yes, that rings a bell. I think senator so-and-so is currently heading up that committee, and he promises that it will finally meet and execute action in the near future...

According to the General Foods Corporation, it was Theodore Roosevelt who coined the Maxwell House coffee phrase "Good To the Last Drop." Story has it that Teddy Roosevelt had stopped by the Hermitage, the home of Andrew Jackson, in Nashville, following a bear hunting trip in 1907, and after drinking a cup of the popular brand coffee, uttered the words, "Delightful - this coffee is good to the last drop."

Theodore Roosevelt sent the Great White Fleet around the world in 1907, but when it returned to the states two years was here that Francis Cabot Lowell in 1814 established on the Charles River, America's first textile mill. From an English textile mill, he memorized all the intricate details of the machinery and how it should work. This textile manufacturing system became the pattern for the entire textile industry during the first half of the 19th century.

ence. But when I got through I had much more confidence in myself."

A woman who wields her white cane with an expertise which almost belies her condition, Jan said people frequently ask her why she's carrying around a ski-pole.

But neither woman really wanted to dwell on her disability — expressing contempt for any people, disabled or otherwise, who "enjoy poor health."

They said they would rather emphasize the positive aims of the Stoneham Commission for the Handicapped. "We'd like to get more people to come to us," Wiley said. "If we call direct and say to someone: 'You're handicapped,' they may get on the defensive. But we'd like, somehow, to break down the barriers and get the disabled, isolated people to come out."

"Established in 1981, we're not a big organization, but we have become close, though in the beginning we were wary of each other. But our nucleus is now a real tight group."

Last December, they related, they were in a panic because they appeared to have no Santa Claus for their Christmas party, held at the Our Place M.E.D. Center on Pleasant Street. They were told that their scheduled Santa, Jerry Sullivan, could not get his costume out of the cleaners in time so Clem Duonolo, Stoneham's building inspector, arranged for another Santa, Bill Dawson, to fill in. But the committee didn't know it, so Mary persuaded her husband, Stu, to wear a Santa hat — which was about all the costume he could lay his hands on.

When the time for the party arrived, they said, Sullivan had obtained his Santa suit after all — Dawson showed up — and Stu Wiley "served" in civvies and Santa hat, as an assistant to the other two.

Jan and Mary said they are known locally as the Golddust Twins, since they are seen around town so much together. Their work is also close to each other's, with Jan employed as secretary to the Stoneham Building Department in Town Hall, and Mary as secretary to both the Veterans' Agent and the Youth Commission in Town Hall Annex.

And while on the subject of twins, Mary produced two sets among her six children. The Wileys, who have four grandchildren, have lived in Stoneham for 30 years. Jan and her husband Bill — Stoneham residents for 29 years — have four children and one grandchild.

Jan Dawson and Mary Wiley are both handicapped. But they and the other members of their group don't dwell on their limitations — then transcend them, urging other disabled to come out of isolation and greet the world, to share their talents with the able and with the other handicapped.

The Stoneham Commission for the Handicapped are not just dreamers, but doers — and they're bringing the New Black Eagle Jazz Band to town for the pleasure of others, and a guaranteed pleasant dream come true.

"We'd like to break down the barrier, to get the disabled person out of isolation," and more into the mainstream, she added. "As for the able person, I think many people are basically afraid of handicapped people. They may think we're fragile, and different. But, for whatever reason, they often get with us and they don't know what to do, or say. They're uncomfortable."

Asked about her own disability, Wiley first, facetiously pointed to her head, then said with a laugh: "I walk funny."

She has dislocated hips and a limp. The first response is almost one of shock at Wiley's levity, yet both she and Jan Dawson display — explicitly and through their humor, the hope that the able person would just be himself, and not patronize the handicapped.

As for the development of Jan Dawson's disability, she described her response to it as "a very interesting and lonely experience." She became legally blind several years ago. "The doctors think it was a virus that attacked my optic nerves," she said, though her affliction was first diagnosed as a brain tumor.

At any rate, the passage from perfect vision to legal blindness within a short time was a sudden and devastating experience. Jan said, and necessitated a 16-week residence at the Carroll Center for the Blind in Newton, for training to adjust to her handicap. She described her stay there as "the worst thing, the hardest thing, and the best thing to happen to me in my situation."

later, Roosevelt, for some unknown reason, ordered that it be immediately painted grey. It was not, however, renamed the Great Grey Fleet. It remained its original title, although I suspect the term "white" became indicative of the color of the sailors' uniforms rather than the ships.

Now that spring is upon us, let's recall a great moment in baseball history: in 1908 the New York Giants lost the pennant to the Chicago Cubs because one of the Giants' players, Fred Merkle, in rounding the bases, forgot to touch second. What a way to lose a pennant!

Advertisements for horseless buggies in Sears catalogs at the turn of the century guaranteed that they would go a hundred miles a day — that is, if they were well cared for. Sounds like an early Lee Iacocca ad campaign to me.

While on the subject of American ingenuity, next year

America celebrates the seventieth anniversary of the self-service grocery store. The first one was called Piggly Wiggly, and talk about cleverness! Customers had to walk up and down every aisle in the store before it reached the check-out counter!

During World War I, Woodrow Wilson purchased sheep to replace the White House gardeners who had been drafted into the army. When Wilson was through with the sheep, he raised $100,000 for the Red Cross by selling the sheep's wool. Perhaps President Reagan could take a lesson from Wilson, and purchase some sheep for the White House as a step towards governmental austerity today.

I'll close with a remark once made by one of Teddy Roosevelt's sons: "When father goes to a wedding, he wants to be the bride; when he goes to a funeral, he wants to be the corpse."

Make it a good week.

HARVEY

The Lyric Stage presents the all-time favorite classic, "Harvey" by Mary Chase, opening on Wednesday, April 24 and running through May 26.

"Harvey" is the story of the charming and lovable Elwood P. Dowd, and his constant companion, a six-foot white rabbit whom no one else can see. Together, Elwood and Harvey turn the world around them topsy-turvy, including a sanitarium to which Elwood is to be committed for his "odd" behavior.

The cast of eccentric characters includes a Judge, a host of doctors and assistants, and Dowd's doting sister and feisty niece.

"Harvey" runs Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 8:00 P.M., Saturdays at 5:00 P.M. and 8:30 P.M., and Sundays at 3:00 P.M. Ticket prices range from $7.50 to $10.00 depending on the day.

Tickets are available through the Box Office (742-8703) or through Concert Charge (497-1118). For more information on tickets, group rates, or discounts, please call the Box Office at 742-8703.

LEGISLATIVE BREAKFAST

Mystic Valley Elder Services, Inc., the Area Agency on Aging serving the elderly population of Everett, Malden Medford, Melrose, North Reading, Reading, Stoneham and Wakefield, will sponsor its second annual Legislative Breakfast on Wednesday, May 1, at Carroll's Restaurant in Medford.

The purpose of this annual event is to bring over one hundred elder advocates and professionals together to discuss issues with the region's state Legislators. Following breakfast, each Legislator will be asked to address the audience, focusing on issues related to: health care cost containment, tax relief for elders and their families and long term care service delivery.

PARENT AIDE

Are you someone others turn to for guidance and support? Do you care enough about others to really listen to them when they need you? Does it help you to know you are helping someone else? If so, you may be a perfect candidate for our Parent Aide Program, serving the Mystic Valley.

With training and ongoing supervision volunteer Parent Aides are often able to have a profound effect on highly stressed families. Parent Aides have the time and flexibility needed to establish a truly trusting, caring open-ended relationship with a parent who has no one.

Volunteering a few hours a week does make a difference. We need your help. Please call Woburn Council of Social Concern, 935-6495 for more information.

TALL CLUB
Boston Beanstalk Tall Club, social hours at various locations throughout the month. For more information call the Beanstalk Hotline 236-2147 (Boston) or 259-0403 (Lincoln). Most of our social hours have free admission and are open to women 5'10" and men 6'2" or taller.

SUBURBAN SINGLES
Open Singles Dance, Knights of Columbus, 130 Lexington Street, Burlington (near Burlington Mall). Telephone 272-2765, Friday, April 26, 8:30 p.m. - 12:30 a.m. Admission $4, all Single Organization members $3. Door prizes, low cash bar. Sponsored by The Suburban

STEPFAMILY ASSOCIATES
Your stepfamily can become a safe and reliable place to live. We all have a picture of family; it is not usually a stepfamily. Come to workshops to meet others in step-relationships to discuss the process and the many issues involved in becoming a comfortable new family. Issues discussed involve: discipline, dealing with the ex-partners, children's conflicted loyalties and having enough time to be alone with your partner, your children or just by yourself. Monthly workshops. Next workshop May 5 (evening). For more information call 738-5533 or 277-1941.

HOME-BASED BUSINESS
A conference, designed to answer questions for someone starting a clothing or fibre-arts related home-based business is being held at the Middlesex County Extension Service Schoolhouse, 105 Everett Street, Concord, Saturday, April 27th from 9:30 A.M. - 12 noon.

The conference will answer such questions as: How to Market what is produced? How to set a price? When to expand a successful business? How the family fits into a home-based business?

The two conference speakers will address these and many other realistic issues that the home-based business entrepreneur will face. These speakers are: Dr. Warren Schumacher, Extension Human Development Specialist from the University of Massachusetts, Amherst and Cynthia Vergados from Creations by Sophia, Inc., Belmont, Mass.

To register, contact Mary Mulvey Williams, Extension Home Economist, Middlesex County Extension Service, 105 Everett St., Concord, Ma. 01742. Telephone 369-4845 or 862-2380.

HEALTH FAIR - CHILDREN
Children ages 2-18 are invited to attend Health Fair '85 this year in the Stoneham Town Hall on May 9 from 12 noon until 7 p.m. Numerous health screens and exhibits, as well as educational entertainment will be offered especially for children by the New England Memorial Hospital Pediatric Unit. Admission is free. For more information, contact NEMH Health Education at 665-1740, ext. 426.

Choral Concert April 27

On Saturday evening, April 27 at 8 P.M. The Boy Singers of Maine will present a public concert at St. Mary's Church, 158 Washington Street in Winchester. Founded in 1979, The Boy Singers of Maine is Maine's premier boychoir, providing excellent musical training to boys between the ages of 8 and 14. During their six-year history, the Boy Singers have toured throughout New England and southeastern Canada, entertaining audiences with a repertoire that spans over 800 years of musical history and includes works by Bach, Handel, Beethoven, Schubert, Brahms, Britten and Holst.

There will be a $2. Admission fee requested at the door for adults and $1. For students and children. For further information please call James Moritz at 729-0055 during the day.

AMERICAN MUSIC
Crittin Hollow String Band and Ira Bernstein will perform in concert on Friday, April 26, at the First Congregational Church, 11 Garden St., Cambridge, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets $5.50 at the Music Emporium and Sandy's Music, $6.50 at the door.

Crittin Hollow String Band brings two Bostonians back home from West Virginia, Joe Fallon (Arlington), and Peter Gordon (Cambridge). Joining them is Sam and Joe Herrmann from West Virginia. This successful combination plays an exquisite blend of old-time fiddle tunes, blues, a little swing, and even a Greek tune or two! The blend of their harmonies, talented musicianship, and wonderful stage presence make for a very memorable evening.

Ira Bernstein is a clog dancer with few equals. His presentation is energetic and entertaining. He dances styles from America, French Canada, and England. The show is enhanced by historical points and stories of local customs.

ARBITRATING UNINSURED AND UNDERINSURED MOTOR VEHICLE

An intensive half-day seminar on arbitrating uninsured and underinsured motor vehicle claims for legal and insurance professionals will be held from 8:15 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on Thursday, May 16 at the Colonnade Hotel in Boston.

The seminar, sponsored by the American Arbitration Association and the Law Offices of James Sokolove & Associates, is designed to update professionals about the state of the laws governing uninsured and underinsured motorist claims. The program will include discussion of the various forms of compensation available, coverage under the Massachusetts Auto Insurance Policy, arbitration goals and methods, and new techniques in dispute resolution.

The fee for the seminar is $50. Registration forms are available from the American Arbitration Association, 60 Staniford Street, Boston, Ma. 02114, telephone (617) 367-6800.

HEALTH FAIR - ADULT

The Quilter's Connection is holding its Eighth Annual Quilt Show on Friday and Saturday, April 26 and 27, at the First Parish Unitarian Universalist Church, 630 Massachusetts Avenue, Arlington. This year's exhibit will feature more than one hundred quilts and wall hangings, a wide variety of quilted clothing, unique fabric dolls, and miniature quilts. A queen-size "Tulip Sampler" quilt will be raffled, and as in past years, the boutique will offer a wonderful selection of fabric-related items for sale.

Show hours are Friday, 10 a.m. - 9 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m. - 4 p.m.

The Quilter's Connection has 250 members throughout eastern Massachusetts and beyond. From beginner to professional they are drawn together by a common enthusiasm for the art of quilting. The diversity of design, style, talent and technique, and the ideas and encouragement exchanged among members contribute much to the success of the group. Access for handicapped. Donation $2.00. HUNTER SUMMER FESTIVAL

A fact-filled, illustrated tabloid newspaper describing a summer's worth of fun at the series of seven summer festivals at Hunter Mountain in New York's northern Catskill Mountains can be had, free, by contacting: Exposition Planners Ltd., Bridge Street, Hunter, N.Y. 12442, phone (518) 263-3800. The newspaper details the Italian Festival, German Alps Festival and Goebelfest, Hunter Country Music Festival, National Polka Festival, International Celtic Festival, Antiques Show, and the Mountain Eagle Indian Festival that delight hundreds of thousands of vacationers each summer.

MEMBERSHIP

North of Boston Singles Club (NOBS) is now accepting membership from single adults from the Boston and North of Boston area of all ages.

NOBS is a nonprofit singles club designed with a full social program to meet the varied interests of all members, including dances, tennis and pool parties, night club nights, dinners, sports events, skiing, weekend trips, and many other activities. Started in 1968, NOBS has a membership of over 400 professional and business people throughout this area. The only prerequisite is that you are single.

Dances are held every Friday at the V.F.W., Main Street, Saugus (behind K-Mart on Route 1), to alternating live bands. Proper dress is required. Donation is $4.00 for non-members.

For further information and a calendar of events, please write to: NOBS, Box 94, Swampscott, Ma. 01907 or call Bernie at 595-8616 days.

45 TO 62
Middlers, Inc. (network for people ages 45-62). A non-profit organization for business and professional middlers. Call 924-2109 or 492-1459 for information or send a self-addressed stamped envelope to Middlers Inc., P.O. Box 1137, Cambridge, Ma. 02238.

BABYSITTER'S CLASS

A class that teaches babysitting skills to young people age 10 or older will meet four Wednesday afternoons, 3:30-5:00 p.m. beginning May 1 in the auditorium at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

Local fire and police officials will speak to the group on accident prevention, safety, and what to do in an emergency. Also, a registered nurse will demonstrate first aid techniques.

Each class member will prepare a kit for future use "on the job," and will have an opportunity to assist in babysitting children at the NEMH Strawberry Mill Day Care Center during the last class session.

Pre-registration for the class is recommended. Course fee is $10. For additional information, contact the Health Education department at NEMH, 665-1740, ext. 426.

PRESIDENT'S CLUB

The annual meeting of the Eighth District Presidents' Club will be held at the Town Lyne House, Route 1, Lynnfield. The date is April 30 at 12 noon. Chicken or schrod will be the choice of menu. Luncheon reservations are being accepted by Esther Osborne and Annabel Aldrich. The deadline date is April 22. Hostess club for this meeting will be the Old and New of Malden Woman's Club.

Following the luncheon there will be a regular business meeting, annual meeting and election of officers presided over by President Mrs. William Deyoe. Program for the afternoon "The Continental Touch" performed by Eugene Bonderman, virtuoso pianist.

Annual dues are payable at this meeting and it's not too late to turn in your "Calendars".

PEACE CORPS RECRUITS

During National Volunteer Week (April 22-27) Peace Corps is issuing a special call for recruits to help fill its programs in Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Pacific.

"Host countries are requesting more and more volunteers, especially in Africa," reported Bill Strack, Boston Peace Corps Area Manager. "We need skilled volunteers of all ages who are looking for a challenge and who are committed to working with people of the developing world in order to help them meet their basic human needs."

During their two years of service, volunteers receive a living allowance, paid travel, training and a post-service readjustment allowance of $4,200. ($175. per month served).

Those interested in finding out more about the Peace Corps should call the Boston Peace Corps Recruiting Office, 150 Causeway Street, Room 1304, Boston, Ma. 02114 at (617) 223-7366.

PLANT SALE/CRAFT FAIR

ANTHONY MANCONI

One of the games that I hated to play when I was a kid was "Hide and Seek." It happened every time I played — I'd go and hide then nobody would bother to look for me. Boy, what that can do to a person's ego. Many times when someone was close enough to "find" me I'd call out, "Here I am." The answer would always be the same, "Who the heck cares!!!"

My Uncle John Shea of North Reading told a politician running for office years ago, "I wouldn't vote for you if you were the Angel Gabriel!" The candidate for mayor answered, "John, if I were the Angel Gabriel 'you' wouldn't be in my constituency!" Sir Winston Churchill had a speech impediment when he was a child but he certainly was very fluent as a member of Parliament. A woman who hated Churchill's guts said to him one day, "Sir Winston, were you my husband I'd poison your tea." Churchill, always a gentleman, replied, "Madam, were you my wife, I'd 'drink' it!"

On a cold winter's night at the Elks in Woburn, the names of the highest ranking veterans of WW II were mentioned who live in the general area. There were quite a few Navy Commanders and Army Colonels and one Brigadier General. My cousin Dennis Tully spoke up and said to me "You think you know everything, what's your opinion?" "Thanks for the 'harpoon,' Dennis," I replied. "The highest ranking men in my book were the 'Dogfaces' who proudly wore the 'Combat Infantryman's Badge.' They were among the troops that landed on 'D' Day — then plowed through a sea of mud traveling 'first class' across France on their bellies. They were the ones who held fast in the excruciating cold of Bastogne. That's why any man wearing the Combat Infantryman's Badge anywhere rates my salute. (And I'm a Navy man!)"

"Hear Ye, Hear Ye, Hear Ye. The Woburn District Court is now in session, all those having business with this court draw near, you shall be heard!" That isn't the case in some countries of the world where some, unfortunately, are accused, convicted and hung in that order, all in the same day. Some people think our judicial system is "slow, lenient and dilatory." Well, thank God that it is, for everyone is entitled to a fair trial.

In the "instant justice" of the frontier days, my great, great grandfather was being led to the gallows at dawn for stealing a horse during the night. It was a night-mare. Anyway, it was discovered that someone had stolen the rope. With a sigh of relief and his eyes closed in prayer, Grandpa Dennis exclaimed, "Glory be, no noose-is-good-noose!"

I am happy that I attended the Colonial Chorus Players' production of Stephen Sondheim's "Follies" at the Reading Memorial High School, if only to see the beautiful Follies Showgirls like Anne Palavanti of Lynnfield, Laura Cavicchio of Reading, and Debbie Dustin of Arlington. There was of course a veritable "galaxy" of scintillating stars in this production who I know made it an enjoyable evening. My wife Kathy tried out for the Ziegfeld Follies many years ago but was told it would be pure "folly" with her shape — but — she could try the "circus."

During holidays or special occasions you can pick up a phone, call and have flowers sent to one you love or care about by "wire." I've known for a long time that "smiles" can be sent by wire too. I can almost "see" the following people's smiles as they speak to me over the phone "wire." Lois Harrington of St. Patrick's Church, Stoneham, Father Robert Doherty, Tom Burke, "CPA" at Ostuni's in Burlington, "cleaning," "pressing," and "alterations," Leo the waiter at the Woburn Elks, Jackie Young of Spence Farm, Mary Gale MacMaster, sister of Dan, a co-worker at the Winchester FDA Lab, Marilyn Stratton of North Reading, Walter Arsenault of Pinewood Gardens, Bill Cerretani of Wakefield, Joseph and Celia Aldo, recent grandparents of Winchester, Bruce and Barbara Burnet of Reading and Stoneham's genial Fire Chief, Ray Sorensen, and many more.

Two silkworms were in a race and they both ended up in a "tie." Tom Jordan of Reading was shingling a house when he noticed one of the carpenter's helpers was throwing almost every other nail away. "What are you doing that for," asked Tommy. "I can't use them," said the helper, "they are facing the wrong way." "Well," exclaimed Tom, "don't throw anymore away, save them and use them on the 'other' side of the house."

My wife Kathy puts on so much oil and cold cream at night that she "slides" out of bed every morning. A doctor told my cousin Angelo Quaganti "Your arm is definitely swollen but I'm not worried about it." "Gee, thanks," replied Angelo. "If your arm was swollen doctor — well, I wouldn't worry about it either!" A young lady friend of mine was complaining that her husband drank too much. "Everyone knows that, Jane," I told her, "surely you must have known that before you married him." "No, I really didn't until he came home 'sober' last night."

My wife missed her usual afternoon nap — she "slept" right through it. Most women prefer "beauty" than "brains" because as a rule men can "see" better than they can "think." In my case, I can't do either one very well. I asked Frank Mazzoni of Wilmington, "If a Pentagon is a five sided figure and a Hexagon is six sided, what is a Polygon?" "Any moron knows that a polygon is a 'dead parrot,'" he said. "I'm surprised," he continued, "that you didn't know that."

A handsome young man, Raymond Wu of Winchester, is a junior at Northeastern University "currently" taking up electrical engineering. Marco Polo said the Chinese used their noodles in inventing spaghetti and you are using your noodle to take interest in the electrical field, especially with your dynamic "magnetic" personality, it may "transform" you into another Wang industrialist. Babe Ruth, "Pride of the Yankees," hit 714 home runs in his major league baseball career. He also had the world's record for "strike outs," but who cares about anyone's failures, it's what you do about them that count.

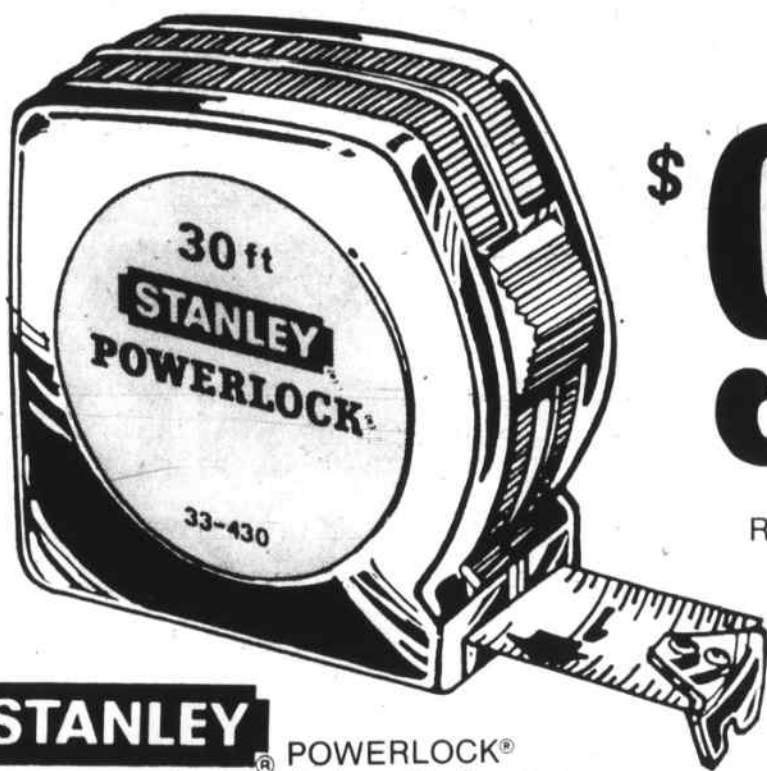

Thomas A. Edison's "experiments" for a better filament for the incandescent bulb were "4,000 failures" until he discovered tungsten did the job better. Sign on a lumber mill, "Come in and 'See What We Saw'."

Alamo Bay The Company of Wolves

Alamo Bay Starring Ed Harris, Amy Madigan, Ho Nguyen, Donald Moffat. Directed by Louis Malle. Produced by Malle and Vincent Malle. Written by Alice Arlen. Rated R (profanity, violence).

Docu-dramas were once black and white images that reflected black and white morals. This is no longer the case, as French director Louis Malle delves into the grey area with his film, Alamo Bay.

Alamo Bay is a quasi-documentary based upon the riots and violent confrontations that erupted along the Gulf Coast of Texas between Vietnamese refugees and native American fishermen between 1979 and 1981.

Although the story focuses in on one refugee Dinh (Ho Nguyen) and a small group of Americans, led by Ed Harris, it is representative of situations that occurred all across America against a people who arrived here partially because of America's involvement with their homeland.

The Ku Klux Klan helped to arouse hatred against the Vietnamese by claiming that they were communistic — a ridiculous myth as they were actually fleeing communism. The sight of the KKK burning a cross and chanting "white power" is guaranteed to send chills down your spine in a manner no horror film ever has.

Malle creates a world in which we become totally absorbed. Although we realize that it is wrong for the Vietnamese to infringe on others' fishing grounds and not play by the rules, in essence they are punished for the American Work Ethic — they work too hard in order to get ahead, which causes the Americans hardships and unemployment.

Harris is again joined by his wife, Amy Madigan. The two were last seen together in Places in the Heart. Madigan plays a woman who employs the Vietnamese, and is involved with Harris. These two dancing together are sexier and much more seductive than two lust-filled teens tearing each others' clothes off, and are what could be described by the old-time studios as "one of the screen's hottest couples."

Although some of Malle's scenes may be too long, and the intense ending seems rather like a set-up, this is still an intelligent drama that is inspiring enough to overcome a few wearied moments.

The Company of Wolves Starring Angela Lansbury, David Warner, Sarah Patterson, Micha Bergese. Directed by Neil Jordan. Produced by Chris Brown and Stephen Woolley. Written by Angela Carter and Jordan. Rated R (violence, brief nudity).

Angela Lansbury must have owed someone a favor to appear in this bizarre update of the Little Red Riding Hood fable. What else could explain her appearance in a movie that appears to have been created by someone deep in a drug-induced state?

The Company of Wolves is the result of an adolescent nightmare by a girl with four-footed hellions on her mind. Actually, her bedroom is so dreary that it is no wonder she is having nightmares.

The audience is transported to her psyche, which lives somewhere down the lane from the Brothers Grimm. The village she conjures up is a mixture of the Middle Ages and fairy land, and is actually the most imaginative concept in the film.

Naturally, she appears in her dream as the fair Rosaleen, the village beauty with a granny (Lansbury) who lives deep in the woods and likes to knit red shawls. Grany is the only amusing, intelligent character in this weird-wolf tale. She tells her granddaughter all kinds of interesting, useful information: "Never stray from the path, never eat a windfall apple, and never trust a man whose eyebrows meet."

Lansbury in her granny-grey hair, apple cheeks and starched white bonnet is a dead ringer for Mother Goose and is just adorable. This role is proof that the woman can play any role, and pull it off gracefully.

If you are wondering how scary this film is, don't — it isn't. The special effects are laughable, at least to an adult, although children might be effected. The werewolves seem to have several methods of escaping their human exterior, with each becoming more ridiculous.

The film is very dark, as director, Neil Jordan must have assumed that all fabled kingdoms lack sunlight, and anachronisms abound. This is because the girl dreaming the romance is modern, so she dreams contemporary ideas into her nightmare. The silliness continues with immaculately clean peasants, and a maiden supposedly eaten by wolves who makes for a great looking, intact corpse. Sexual symbolism is everywhere, as well as other symbolisms that quite frankly went right over this reviewer's head. True, you can argue that since this film is one, long dream, anything can happen. Sure, but it would be nice if it made a little sense.

A nice footnote to this film is a remark made by a colleague after the lights were turned on: "That was a very long two hours," he said. "Actually, the Company of Wolves only runs 90 minutes. You figure out how boring it was."

Retired Men's Club welcomes new members

WAKEFIELD — Just as a four season climate is a thing of beauty and a joy forever to many New Englanders, it is nonetheless a pattern. And as a pattern, the bi-monthly meetings are a must for most of the Retired Men's Club. At tendance figures hold up thus: March 13 (284), March 27 (247), April 10 (168). First time visitors were: Robert Carey, Newton;

Tom Ford and Joseph R. Moore, Stoneham; Doug MacDonald and Alexander Mate, Melrose (5); Arthur R. Johnston, North Reading; Peter J. Montorisi, Wakefield (2); Ray Williams, Melrose; Frank S. Cicciarella and Harry Rillattanz, Wakefield (3). New members March 13, William M. Turgiss, Woburn; Louis DeLorenzo, Everett; March 27, Robert Baker, Melrose and John Austin, Reading; April 10, Alexander Mate, Melrose.

Observance of birthday anniversaries is an appreciated highlight of each meeting and is read by 2nd V.P. Frank Day, Reading. Paul Richmond's 'jewels' a/k/a 'thots for the day' are always well received. In his absence, George Flewelling, Lynnfield is the pinch-hitter.

Camera Club meets first and third Tuesdays, 9:30 a.m., every month except July and August. President Henry Porter, Reading, reports on Camera Club programs which include occasional Ladies' Days. Tom Coughlan, Melrose is not sure how he was saddled with the door-prize. He does such a good job, no one seems to care. The band meets for rehearsals Monday mornings and reports are given by bandleader emeritus Chester Card, Everett. Dick Taylor's bowlers meet Monday and Thursday, 1 p.m. at Wakefield Bowladrome, where they try to 'make' the team for the October and April home and home series with the Needham Retired Men's Club. The stamp club with President Jim Boyd, Reading, meets first and third Tuesdays, 1:30 p.m. at the Beebe Library lecture hall. John Vernon, Peabody, Safety Committee; John Griffin, Wakefield, Sick & Visitation; Henry Murphy, Reading, Special events; and Bob Spriou, Tripsmaster, completes the list of reporters. Les York, Reading, is performing yeoman service as assistant to Vice President George Richards. Seems every time we look up he is at the podium introducing another program which he has arranged. March 13 his son-in-law Willard Dingwell of Tewksbury spoke on the timely subject of taxes. Mr. Dingwell is a financial planner and part-time tax consultant with the Wakefield office of H&R Block. He brought the group up to date on changes in State and Federal requirements. The question and answer period proved helpful to many.

The old saw about strength in numbers was noted at the March 27 meeting as Mr. York introduced not one, but three lovely ladies, and a hearing-ear dog. For the record, K-dog did not 'speak' or utter sound one, during the two hours it was present. Esther Nowell, president of Protection of Animals in Wakefield Society, expressed thanks for the opportunity to publicize PAWS and several accomplishments during the three years of existence. It was her pleasure to present the requested program by introducing Linda Wielblad and her hearing-ear dog, Linda's business partner, Laura Golly of Designers & Illustrators, Providence, showed slides as Linda narrated. The seeing-eye program has a lengthy history while the hearing-ear program has a bit more than 10 years. 48 of 50 states allow the same considerations for hearing-ear dogs as for seeing-eye dogs.

Linda began with a story of a flight to California with her 12 year old K-dog. At a St. Louis stop she took her dog for a necessary walk. Returning to the plane and a change of stewardess, an awkward moment ensued: Stewardess: "Is that a seeing-eye dog?" Reply: "No, it's a hearing-ear dog." "Well, I've never heard of one before. I don't think I can let her in the cabin with you!" Linda: "She flew in the cabin from Boston, what are we to do now, WALK to California?" After a few checks by the stewardess, dog and owner went aboard to complete their flight.

The seeing-eye dog harness is white with a rigid control arm for its blind owner. The hearing-ear dog has a yellow harness and flexible leash, which is removed when dog and owner are in the home, where the dog is at peak performance. Program headquarters are in Rhode Island, with a training center in West Boylston, Massachusetts. Most of the dogs are salvaged from shelters and pounds, which is humane from the onset. A deaf person will pay $150 and up for a dog, even though it costs about $2,000 and takes five to six months to train. Tax deductible monetary contributions are always welcome. Deaf owners of hearing-ear dogs range in age from 10 to 90 years. Miss Wielblad has applied for a replacement as K-dog at age 12 is the oldest in the program and subject to permanent retirement at any moment. After a short question period the guests were given a rising vote of thanks.

Free Community Concert for new members!

Yes, the Manhattan Rhythm Kings is a free concert if patrons join the Greater Stoneham Community Concerts by the night of the concert — April 29 at 8:15 p.m. The local association is holding a New Membership Drive April 29 to May 4. The headquarters for the drive is at the Stoneham Pharmacy, 409 Main St., Stoneham Square. Hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Since the Manhattan Rhythm Kings is the last concert of the present season, new members are invited to enjoy this concert to acquaint them with the concert series. Memberships will be available at the night of the concert, also. The concerts for the 1985-86 season, previously announced, are the New York Light Opera Company, an amusing quartet of singers and actors, DeWayne Fulton, master of ancient and modern harp, and Robert Galbraith, an exciting new baritone on the current opera scene. All concerts are held at Stoneham High School, 149 Franklin St., Stoneham.

For more details on the membership series, call Mrs. Robert Dearth, Membership Chairman, at 438-9232; or Headquarters at 438-7449 during the office hours; or call local workers Mrs. Nancy Leavitt, Membership Co-chairman, at 944-5262; Mrs. B. Crane at 245-5003; Mrs. Ernest Hall at 935-0889; Mrs. Malvern Oliver at 729-1516; or Mrs. George Pacetti at 729-3410.

The Manhattan Rhythm Kings have gained immense popularity through their impeccable performances of the best American popular music. Concentrating on repertoire from the 20s, 30s and 40s in the manner of Paul Whiteman's Rhythm Boys and the Boswell Sisters, or in close harmonies as in the Mills Brothers or the Andrews Sisters, they bring the music to life as it was meant to be heard — singing, dancing and playing an impressive variety of instruments.

The Manhattan Rhythm Kings

have played New York City's finest supper clubs and night spots such as the Bottom Line, the Savoy and Sardi's. Their television credits include two appearances on "As the World Turns," "The Today Show," the "Tom Snyder Show" and NBC's "Live at Five." They have performed with stars such as Barbara Cook, Fran Warren and the Les Brown Orchestra; at the Kennedy Center, Disney World and the Beverly Hills' Century Plaza Hotel.

Rhythm Kings Hal Shane, Brian Nalepka, Michael Reeder.

Springtime productions for theater lovers

BURLINGTON — The Middlesex Community College Spring Drama Club Production, "The Drunkard" (or Down with Demon Drink), will be held Wednesday through Saturday, April 24-27, 8 P.M. at the Black Box Theatre, Middlesex Community College, Burlington Campus.

Ticket information is available from MCC Student Activities at 275-8910, ext. 279. Senior Citizen discount tickets are available.

Written at the turn of the century in America, "The Yellow Wallpaper" is the story of a woman who, confined by her husband and doctors

"The Yellow Wallpaper" was first presented at The Boston Women's Theatre Festival at The Boston Shakespeare Company Theatre on March 31, 1985. For more information on The Late Night Series or The New Ehrlich Theatre, please call 482-6316.

Babysitting course

Boys and girls who are in the sixth grade and up can learn a variety of skills that will be useful when babysitting, at the babysitting skills course that will be taught at the Melrose Public Library on May 2, 9 and 16 from 3-5 p.m., through the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital.

The first session will feature staff instructors from the hospital who will show the students how to feed and diaper a baby, and also discuss the growth and development of babies.

The second session will be taught by a Fireman and a Policeman and will teach the students what to do in case of a fire and how to use the Police as a resource should the babysitter become frightened or notice something suspicious.

The last session will teach the students how to avoid accidents, what to do in case of an accident and what to do if a baby or child becomes ill while being babysit.

To register for this course, please call the hospital at 662-7200, ext. 3508. The cost of the course is $8.

Baby Furniture Outlet open now in Reading

Baby Furniture Outlet Inc. has purchased property at 39-41 Lincoln St. in Reading. Paul A. Doucette, a long-time resident of Reading, was the previous property owner and for many years operated Paul's Furniture store at this location. The property was transferred earlier this month through the office of Kaine & Wentworth Real Estate, Susan Theophanis, selling broker.

The new property owner is Baby Furniture Outlet Inc., a Florida corporation headquartered in Marathon. The company wholesales and retails juvenile furniture and complementary items through a network of 50 stores with company owned, joint venture, or affiliate stores in 20 states plus Puerto Rico and Taiwan. The Reading store will be managed by Ileana Callazo, a local resident.

Paul Doucette has moved Paul's Furniture store to Paul's Movers building, directly behind the Baby Furniture Outlet.

Part Time 11 - 7

Green Grove Convalescent Home of North Reading currently utilizes full-time, part-time and flexible scheduling for staff. In our Nursing Dept. we currently have 12-hour weekend positions which pay 1 1/2 times base wage. Additionally, our new wage scale allows us to offer a starting rate for new staff which gives credit for prior experience in health care. Our "Pay-Instead-Of-Benefits" plan is tailored for full-time staff who do not wish to receive our benefit package, but instead wish to receive a higher pay rate.

If you are interested in learning to help the elderly and assisting those who cannot help themselves, please contact us for an interview. Green Grove is conveniently located off Routes 93 and 28. If you would like to give health care a try and work in a home-like atmosphere delivering quality care to the elderly, please contact the Nursing Office, Monday-Friday, 7 a.m.-4 p.m.
